U. S. RELIEF FUND BIG ISSUE TODAY IN CITY COUNCIL

Mayor Key To Ask Diversion of $88,000 School Book Fund To Complete Payment Due Federal Government on April 1.

BODY TO CONSIDER 2 VETOES BY MAYOR

Future of City's Fiscal Structure Depends on Court Ruling Wednesday on Bond Refunding.

Atlanta's financial troubles again will occupy the spotlight at a council meeting at 2 o'clock this afternoon with continued expenditure of about $1,000,000 a month for relief purposes as the paramount issue.

Mayor James L. Key will lead the battle for retention of the funds, and will be backed generally by administration leaders and many members of council who believe that drastic action is necessary to avert the most recent crisis over federal monies.

Diversion of an $88,000 allocation to schools, voted to pay a 1932 text book bill, will be asked by the mayor as a temporary expedient in his effort to satisfy federal officials and bring up to date the agreement to pay $50,000 monthly for relief, which has been made a condition precedent to continued federal expenditures here. If the $88,000 is diverted, Atlanta will be able to complete the payment due federal authorities on April 1, and other means then must be found to provide the future demands. In seeking the diversion, Key will ask that $75,000 of the amount be paid federal officials and that the remaining $13,000 be distributed equally between firemen and police. Of the $150,000 owed, $75,000 already has been paid.

Firemen's Fund Exhausted.

The firemen's fund now is exhausted. General pensions can run only another two months.

In addition to the move to save federal expenditures, council action is expected on the following other important measures:

1. Request by Councilman John A. White that the city planning commission study a proposed rehousing development in the fourth ward to clear slum areas. He will seek federal assistance on the project if it is found feasible, he announced Sunday.
2. Veto by the mayor of a private corporation to operate the Albert Steiner Cancer clinic.
3. Indorsement of the Techwood, Inc. by the federal government at a cost of $5,100,000. The measure is sponsored by the streets committee of council, headed by Alderman Ellis B. Barrett. Techwood proposes a clearance in the sixth ward and near Atlanta University and is directed locally by C. F. Palmer.
4. Request by the special charter revision committee, of which Alderman G. Everett Millican is chairman, that the tax committee make an exhaustive study of tax laws and recommend changes to be asked of the 1935 session of the general assembly in the effort to obtain additional funds for the municipality.
5. Empowering of the streets commission.

Insull May Stay at Sea Month, Counsel Hints

ATHENS, March 18.—(AP)—A month-long cruise aboard a dinky Greek tramp vessel—Samuel Insull's own little kingdom on the high seas—was in prospect today for the former Chicago opera patron who again has given everybody the slip. One of Insull's counsel here said he planned to remain at sea, secure from American extradition, until April 20—"or perhaps longer."

The lawyer denied Insull was going to Abyssinia, little-known kingdom of Ethiopia in northern Africa. He also declined to give any further information because "my client's life might be endangered."

There, it was known, the brother of Mrs. Congoumouli, wife of a Baghdad merchant, who aided in attending Insull during his illness in Athens, was present.

The belief was general that the financier was headed for Abyssinia in his startling dash aboard the Maotis Wednesday night, only to be recalled, but his lawyer here said it was probable the course would be changed on the second journey.

A dispatch from Port Said stated it was understood port authorities had received orders from the Egyptian government not to admit Insull to land if he arrived.

Before sailing just after midnight last night, the one-time utilities magnate said he planned to go to Djibouti, French Somaliland, in the Gulf of Aden, and the entrance to Abyssinia.

To do so he would have to pass through Port Said but he would not have to leave his ship at Port Said. There, it was known, the brother of Mrs. Congoumouli, wife of a Baghdad merchant, who aided in attending Insull during his illness in Athens, was present.

MUSSOLINI PLANS 60-YEAR PROGRAM FOR SUPREMACY

Industrial Peak Is Aim of Il Duce in Projecting Internal and External Expansion.

ROME, March 18.—(AP)—A 60-year program of internal and external expansion which will give Italy the "primacy of the world" was outlined today by Premier Benito Mussolini in a speech to 5,000 cheering chief fascists of the kingdom.

"That century," he said, "will be a 'black shirt' era."

The dictator spoke in the Rome opera house to the so-called quinquennial assembly of the regime one week before the fifth anniversary of the rise to power of the fascists.

In the audience were virtually all of Italy's noted men, including Guglielmo Marconi, the inventor; the cabinet, provincial prefects and other officials.

"In this age of plans," Il Duce declared, "I want to lay before you a plan not for five years or 10 years, but for 60 years, carrying on to the twenty-first century, at which time Italy will have the primacy of the world."

No Future in West, North.

"Italy has no future in the west and north. Her future lies to the east and south in Asia and Africa. The vast resources of Africa must be valorized and Africa brought within the civilized circle."

"I do not refer to conquest of territory," he said, "but to natural expansion. We demand that nations which have already arrived in Africa do not block at every step Italian expansion."

More, it was said, he was referring particularly to France.

Internally, Mussolini said, immediate objectives were completion of swamp reclamation by 1940, new aqueducts and highways, plans to create Italian municipalities, complete rebuilding of 500,000 rural houses and repairs to 930,000 rural houses, a work of 30 years.

"Every rural person will have a clean and healthy house," he asserted. "Only in this way can the rush to the city be combated."

In the midst of a pandemonium of applause Mussolini said fascism "became universal in 1929."

"But in this phenomenon," he continued, "it is necessary to distinguish between positive and negative fascism. Positive fascism knows how to destroy the old and rebuild the new, whereas negative fascism knows only how to destroy."

Persons near to Il Duce said they did not know to what nation he referred, although some mentioned Germany.

Refers to Foreign Policy.

In reference to foreign policy, Mussolini said:

"Italy has held a policy of friendship with Austria ever since the war and will continue to do so. Austria knows we can be depended upon to defend her independence and we will do all we can to help her economically."

(Italy, Austria and Hungary yesterday signed political and commercial treaties.)

"Our relations with Yugoslavia," he said, "are diplomatically correct, but nothing more. Yet the nations should be friendly, because they are complementary to each other."

"Relations with France," he continued, "are better from a general point of view. But really, I state that none of the problems which have existed between us for 15 years have been solved."

Between Hungary and Italy there is comprehension and solidarity, Hungary said.

Auto-Labor Peace Appeal Sounded; 10,000 Workers Gather in Detroit

A plan calling for establishment of an impartial grievance committee and an election to determine the actual representatives of labor in the automobile industry has been proposed by General Hugh S. Johnson, right, NRA administrator, to patch up the breach between labor and the General Motors corporation. Johnson stepped into the controversy after William S. Knudson, left, executive vice president of the automobile concern, served formal notice on Senator Robert F. Wagner, center, below, chairman of the national labor board, that the corporation will neither recognize an American Federation of Labor union nor enter into any contract with it on behalf of employees. This precipitated a declaration from William Green, center, top, president of the A. F. of L., that the automobile industry is on the brink of one of the greatest strikes in the nation's history.

BOSTON, March 18.—(AP)—Edward A. Filene, prominent merchant and chairman of the New England district recovery board, today issued an appeal to the part of both employers and employees' organizations.

"I am hoping for something much better than a compromise. I am hoping for a solution which will melt the ice of misunderstanding and result in practical and mutually profitable co-operation between the whole American labor movement and modern, progressive American industry."

"Industrial statesmanship, I believe, can find such a solution. It is not as if General Motors were typical of the old capitalism in which employers stood surly upon their legal and their property rights. General Motors is in the very vanguard of the new capitalism in which the employer recognizes the business necessity for higher and higher wages, shorter and shorter workdays and all the advances to labor for which labor unionism stands."

"But General Motors, in common with much of 'big business,' is afraid that the American Federation of Labor is not so organized as to control its members within the bounds of justice and fair play."

CHECK OF VOTES ON F. D. R. BILLS TO PROVIDE 'CURE'

List of Twenty-One Administration Measures Revealed by Speaker on Which Solons May Have Deserted Party.

YEAR'S ROLL CALLS WILL BE ANALYZED

More Than 90 Erstwhile 'Regulars' Put on List for Stand on Bonus Legislation.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—With old-time regulars breaking away from the administration in droves on veterans' legislation, Speaker Rainey has ordered a detailed check to show which house democrats voted "wrong" on 21 different occasions.

Rainey and other leaders are unwilling to admit that they plan any action against the outstanding irregulars. They say that nothing tangible can be done.

"But we'll have the information showing how many men have voted against us and on what occasions," the speaker said.

Many things could be done with the tabulation. If, for example, Postmaster-General Farley, democratic patronage dispenser, should telephone Rainey to refer to the list and see what the record showed.

Rainey classes 21 bills and resolutions as "administration." A glance at the list would show:

Opposes 12 of Bills.

Hoepel, of California, has opposed 12 of them: Terrell, of Texas, 11; Connery, of Massachusetts, chairman of the labor committee, 8, and Crosser, of Ohio, chairman of the democratic steering committee, 7.

The 21 roll calls extend back to the opening of this congress just after President Roosevelt took office. Among the propositions being tabulated are: The first economy bill and a resolution on senate amendments; legislation of beer; the farm adjustment act; farm mortgage act; federal emergency relief administration; Muscle Shoals and a conference report on that; the Home Owners' Loan Corporation; economy legislation on the independent offices appropriation bill of last session; the public works administration and the first gold bill.

Roll Calls include:

The liquor tax; the economy "gas" rule and the vote on a republican motion to send that back to the committee; dollar devaluation; the $850,000,000 civil works and relief appropriation; the revenue bill; the measure permitting continued use of government securities as collateral for current government borrowing; the bill away from the ways and means committee, and the vote to pass that bill.

More than 90 democrats were added to Speaker Rainey's "wrong" list by their bonus votes. Most of them had been "regulars" before, and said that if the bill did not go to the president and was vetoed by him they would vote to sustain his veto.

Dowager of Holland Is Dangerously Ill

THE HAGUE, March 18.—(AP)—The condition of the dowager queen of Holland, who is 81 years of age, was said tonight to be dangerous. Queen Wilhelmina is at the palace with her mother.

- Bandit Trap Sprung, Negro Shot to Death
- A bandit trap in the drug store of J. D. Merritt, at 232 Forsyth avenue, late Sunday night was sprung with such success that the negro bandit who held up the drugist was wounded so severely that he died a few minutes later at Grady hospital.
- The unidentified negro had just obtained a total of $12.70 from Merritt, when he was threatening with death with a pistol he carried, when a shotgun in the hands of A. E. Hamer, of 114 Baker street, N. E., who had waited for two years for just such an emergency, blasted into the negro with his load of 13 buckshot, police said.
- Given a fatal wound, the negro toppled over, breaking down a showcase in his fall. He was taken to Grady by Radio Patrolmen E. Head and F. A. Turner, who were called to the store.
- Merritt said that he was held up frequently several years ago, and that he determined to protect himself with a watchman. Hamer was hired to guard the shop, and held a vigil during business hours, hidden in the rear of the shop with a shotgun at his side, Merritt said.

- Two Killed at Macon As Auto Drops 60 Feet
- MACON, Ga., March 18.—(AP)—Two men were killed tonight and two others were seriously injured today when a 60-foot auto plunged from a bridge over a railroad bridge near Dry Branch, and plunged 60 feet into a gully.
- Elijah T. Mullis Sr. and his son, Emmett Mullis, both of whom lived 12 miles north of Cochran, Ga.
- The injured are: Idus Mullis, a son of the dead man, and Fred Shelton, both of Macon. They are in a local hospital.
- The truck on the bridge was loaded with negroes, the exact number of which has not been determined by local police, but a understood that Twigg county authorities are bringing the negroes to Macon for an inquest late tonight.

- Man Trapped 45 Minutes In 350° Baker's Oven
- NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—William Philipe, repair man, was trapped for 45 minutes today in a baker's oven at 350 degrees Fahrenheit. He was rescued by a police emergency squad and taken to a hospital. His condition was serious.
- Philipe crawled into the oven just after the fire was drawn to repair the ash sifting apparatus. He was unable to back out through the door, which was jammed, and workers could not pull him out. He weighed 200 pounds.
- Water could not be poured into the oven because the temperature, 138 degrees over the boiling point, might have caused suffocation by steam.
- The police ripped off the steel front of the oven and removed the brick lining with hammers and cold chisels. A half hour after they started they were able to pull Philipe out. He was semi-conscious.

Russians Press Toward Rescue of 89 Adrift on Perilous Bering Sea Ice

MOSCOW, March 18.—(P)—By land and sea today the soviet government's operations for the rescue of 89 members of an expedition stranded on an ice floe in the Bering sea, faced by less than a month's supply of food and fuel, gained new momentum.

The government rescue commission here announced two specially equipped airplanes, piloted by the aviators, Galyshov and Doronin, flew from Khabarovsk to Nikolayevsk, Siberia, March 17, despite a snowstorm, on the first stage of a flight to Cape Wallen, which will be the base for their actual rescue flights.

Members of the Cape Wrangel party were marooned February 13 when their vessel, the Chelivsk, sank. Twelve women and children of the group were removed March 5 by the liner Laidinovsky, missing for days, but reported found today.

The aviator Vodoplanov, who was to have accompanied Galyshov and Doronin in a third plane, was forced back to Khabarovsk by bad weather, but was expected to take off again today.

Seven light airplanes have been unloaded from a steamer at Olutorak bay and will take off for Cape Wallen via Providentia bay Tuesday.

Meanwhile, a dog-team base has been established at Cape Oumman and the icebreaker Krassin is scheduled to sail soon for Leningrad to aid in the rescue efforts.

The government commission revealed it has sent two small semi-rigid dirigibles to Vladivostok by rail to be used in the relief operations if other means fail.

Such craft, it was pointed out, are unsuited for work in the arctic and will be employed only in the case of an acute emergency. The dirigible expedition is commanded by Ernest Birnbaum, one of the participants in the red army's record stratosphere flight.

Radio advices from the north cape said a fierce blizzard is raging in the whole region. Radio communication with the marooned men was interrupted yesterday.

The camp's latest position, on the floating ice, was revealed as 68 degrees, 24 minutes, .06 seconds north latitude, 173 degrees, .07 minutes, .07 seconds west longitude.

Child's Sudden Death Mystifies Physicians

Physicians Sunday night were puzzled over the cause of death of a three-year-old girl who, up to the moment she was found dead, had been considered as being in the best of health.

The child, Juanita Leitch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Leitch, of McDonough road, fell asleep in her father's arms Sunday afternoon while the family was motoring in a truck to Candler field. The father placed the child on a pallet in the back of the truck, and continued on the way.

Arriving at Candler field, he picked up the child, but was unable to awaken her.

The ambulance of Donehoo-Brandon-Pratt Company brought the child to Grady hospital, where physicians worked in vain for more than an hour in efforts to revive her. An inquest will be held this morning in an effort to determine the cause of death. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Donehoo-Brandon-Pratt.

"Security also will be dependent on the birthrate, he added, terming as idiotic the idea of an increase in population means misery."

"Venality means death to any nation," he said.

RECOVERY EXPOSITION OPENS AT MACON TODAY

MACON, Ga., March 18.—(P)—Middle Georgia's this week will learn about their state at the business recovery exposition opening tomorrow night in the Macon auditorium.

Fifty amazingly novel exhibitions will be ready for the hundreds of visitors tomorrow night as the first of six daily stage shows will go on at 5:45 o'clock.

Governor Eugene Talmadge will address the audience in the auditorium during Wednesday's program, planned by the Rotary Club, while Sherman Rogers, associate editor of Liberty magazine, will speak Friday under the auspices of the Exchange Club.

Probably the feature of the entire exposition will be a double booth donated by the chamber of commerce for the display of radio communication with the marooned men was interrupted yesterday.

Spain Eager for Trade Combine With America, Officials Reveal

(Copyright, 1934, by The Associated Press.) MADRID, March 18.—The present barriers against American exports to Spain could be removed by a bilateral accord settling long-standing differences between the two countries, Spanish and American commercial officials said today.

Spain's exports complain that their leading products, such as manufactured cork, olives, olive oil, and onions are kept out of the United States by prohibitive tariffs and that America's grapes are excluded by unfair regulations of the department of agriculture.

American business people here are displeased because Spain has granted preferential customs rates to certain European countries on important imports, including automobiles, motion pictures, and other goods.

The new tariff system has been described as a "complex matter" because it is based on the theory that Spain should buy from countries which buy from Spain. The schedule to be worked out will affect American exports to Spain because this country has a two-to-one unfavorable trade balance with the United States.

YOUTH IS ARRESTED IN EXTORTION PLOT

ST. LOUIS, March 18.—(UP)—Federal and municipal authorities tonight announced the arrest of a young man in connection with an extortion plot against A. F. Seay, vice president of the Ralston-Purina company here, with arrest of Victor Lando, who had been charged with later confessed. He had threatened members of the Seay family, and demanded first $500, then $1,000.

He should be employed and what the output should be. The aim of the plot was to force the automobile industry to contribute to the industrial progress of this country.

Approximately 1,000 members of the Hudson Motor Car Company union attended the first of these meetings and heard speeches by local leaders and by William H. Collins, national representative of the American Federation of Labor. Collins told the workers that the dispute was not centered about the issue of better hours and wages so much as for strict enforcement of the NRA automobile code. He said that the leaders hoped to force the industry to make a new deal with the workers.

The workers adopted a resolution asking the National Broadcasting Company for time in which to make a reply to a speech made Saturday night by John L. Lovett, president of the Michigan Manufacturers' Association.

Collins said the workers' list of rules which would be in force should be a strike and there was every likelihood that pay rolls for various divisions of the municipality, already delayed for nearly 60 days, will be paid even longer.

Key and many members of council do not wish to make any further salary cut in the pay of employees. They feel that employees should not be required to carry the burden of inability of the city to refund the 1933 bonds.

Their hopes are pinned on the courts to allow the validation. They then intend to offer the bonds to federal authorities, who lie in wait to buy them, thus obviating the necessity for imposing more salary slashes on city workers.

GEORGIA STUDENTS ASKED TO ENTER ESSAY CONTEST

100 of the leading colleges have bought the books for their libraries. Senators, governors, scientists and others have all in for it.

The library of Southern Literature was compiled under the direct supervision of southern men of letters, Edwin Anderson Alderman and Charles Alphonso Smith were the editors in chief and Charles William Kent and John Calvin Metcalf were the literary editors.

The library includes the productions of orators and statesmen, including Washington, Lee, Jefferson, Stephens and others; historians and biographers, poets and dramatists, novelists, moralists, writers, humorists and dialect writers, theologians and philosophers, educators and scientists, writers of travel and description, essays and journalists, women writers of note—all southern-born.

Each writer is introduced with a biography and a choice of "best" work. The books are not only entertaining and instructive but are also ornamental, worthy of a place in any well-selected library.

A new edition of the Library of Southern Literature has just been published by the Martin & Horst Company, publishers of Atlanta.

No conditions are imposed on contestants except that they be high school students. It is not necessary to be a subscriber to The Constitution to enter the contest.

Capable judges will read the essays and select the 15 best. Their judgment will be final.

Remember the deadline—March 31, 1934.

Will Demonstrate Hearing Aid to the Deafened Here

Local Optical Store Will Demonstrate New Hearing Aid Said to Be Greatest Advance in Science of Acoustics.

A demonstration for the benefit of the hard of hearing will be conducted by a Whitehall street optical store beginning Monday morning, continuing through Wednesday. Speaking of the new instrument and its effect upon those who are near deaf, Mr. G. B. Sisson, who is in charge of the demonstration, declares it to be the most perfect hearing aid science has yet developed, enabling many to enjoy ordinary conversational tones for the first time in years.

Acoustical engineers working on the principle of bone conduction have recently developed a release from deafness as complete as many a famous surgical feat, said Mr. Sisson. Sound is transmitted direct to the auditory nerves, detouring impairment in the middle ear. This new instru-

2 Bandits Identified By $3 Holdup Victim

Hold up by two negroes at Cain and Court streets Sunday morning and robbed of $3, H. H. Milton, of 274 Luckie street, later in the day identified as the bandits two negroes who were arrested by police and held on "suspicion."

Police said that Milton identified as the bandits two negroes who gave the names of Ed Walker, of 80 Hill street, and Guy Johnson, of 22 Johnson place.

Edwin Wilson, of 802 Pryor street, reported to police that he was beaten about the head by three men at Pryor street and Ridge avenue Sunday morning. The trio searched his pockets, but found no money. Wilson said he was treated at Grady hospital.

Miss Margaret Jones, of 690 West Peachtree street, reported the loss of $25 from her purse.

Refunding Bonds Interest.

Although the mayor and leaders are prepared to ask council for immediate action in providing the $25,000 yet due federal authorities for the first three months of this year on the basis of an agreement with Miss Guy B. Shepperson, Georgia CWA and national administrator, the effort to refund 1934 bonds, which have been pledged to the relief accounts, holds the interest of city officials.

Refunding of these bonds is necessary, leaders assert, because failure to do so would precipitate a greater fiscal crisis in municipal affairs than has come about in recent months.

Refunding has been attacked in the courts and Judge Virlyn B. Moore, of Fulton county superior court, is slated to try the issue Wednesday. An injunction to prevent validation of the refunding bonds is sought, the contention being made that they constitute a new debt and therefore cannot be validated unless voted by the people of Atlanta.

Leaders Cite Precedents.

Administration leaders pointed out that the city's bonds are not being validated without protest, and that the federal government has accepted them as collateral for PWA loans.

They also pointed out that the city has erected through the posting of refunded bonds with federal authorities. They hold that refunding of the bonds does not constitute a new debt, but merely defers payment of a debt already incurred.

Failure to validate the bonds would mean an additional salary cut for municipal employees amounting to about 14 per cent or more for the remainder of the year. It would be a direct blow to the city's financial position.

Non-school employees now have cuts ranging from 3 per cent to 13 per cent.

If the bonds are not validated the entire city finance sheet must be revamped, and there is every likelihood that pay rolls for various divisions of the municipality, already delayed for nearly 60 days, will be paid even longer.

Key and many members of council do not wish to make any further salary cut in the pay of employees. They feel that employees should not be required to carry the burden of inability of the city to refund the 1933 bonds.

DIXIE PROSPEROUS, HOWELL DECLARES

Constitution Executive Tells Miamians South Is on Definite Upgrade.

MIAMI, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—The south which, he said, "has been eating out of the kitchen for a long time," is coming into an era of prosperity "like we've never known before," Clark Howell Jr., vice president and general manager of the Atlanta Constitution, declared here today.

Farmers are getting more money for their cotton, he said, and the better times which they are enjoying are reflected in other lines of business.

"Cotton is selling for around 10 cents now as against 5 cents last year," Mr. Howell said. "It has been higher, but in the past, it was not the man who raised it who benefited. The farmer had to sell on a low market to get the benefit of the increase. Now, that situation is changed. The man on the farm has his affairs on a cash basis."

"He explained, is due to the plan to permit the farmer to plow up a certain percentage of his cotton crop and to be paid for the amount destroyed, and also the option given him to sell cotton on the basis of his average yearly crop."

"No matter what a barometer you use," said Howell, "the indications are the same, that the south is the most prosperous section of the United States today."

"Take any business map you please; the story is the same. The south is a white spot instead of the ink spot it has been for a long time."

"Clearings of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, which serves the southeastern section, are leading the country in the percentage of increase. Department store sales and other mercantile lines are showing a healthy business increase and there is a general atmosphere of optimism inspired by the upward swing in the past few months."

Mr. Howell and his wife are spending a winter vacation here.

$1,500,000 ALLOTTED TO ARKANSAS COLLEGES

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—Archer Wheatley, attorney for Little Rock carrying with him completed contracts for public works allotments to the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville and its medical college at Little Rock.

The contracts were given final approval by public works officials late yesterday. Wheatley said. They will be signed by school officials and returned to Washington when the funds will be disbursed. The allotment to the university was more than $1,000,000 and that to the medical college about $500,000.

American Machine Made Possible Revolution in Russia, Says Hindus

By RALPH MCGILL.

"America supplied Russia with the weapon which is being used to destroy the capitalist system," Maurice Hindus, brilliant Russian author and lecturer, told a large and attentive audience Sunday afternoon at the Wesley Memorial Auditorium.

The "weapon" which the soviet union is using in its fight against the capitalist system is the American machine.

"Without the American machine the Russian revolution would have been impossible of success," said Hindus. "It was the basis of the revolution."

Hindus inspired some spontaneous applause which had the audience talking excitedly after his lecture. The applause, a loud burst of immediate and spontaneous hand-clapping, came as Hindus said:

"Private enterprise has been wiped out in Russia. All that remains is the market in the cities where the farmers may sell their goods. But if one goes there and buys a dozen eggs and sells them for as much as 10 cents profit he goes to jail for eight years," said Hindus.

Hindus said that it was possible to prove anything about any country. He disposed of the propaganda against Russia very effectively.

"People go there and stay a few days and write books," he said. "I read one in which the author said no one smiled in Russia. I could give you the same thing by going into the New York subway or attending a series of American funerals. I have read that in Russia people starve. This is true. But it is true in Russia there is not enough butter. That is true. But it is true anywhere. There are people in any town who do not have enough to eat."

"But there is no doubt but that the standards of living have been lowered in Russia," he continued. "This was inevitable. There is Russian blood in all the factories and the steel plants and the tractor plants. Russia has paid all her bills since the new government came into power. No businessman anywhere has lost a dime on new Russia."

But in order to pay these bills Russia has had to sell wheat at a low price and produce which she needed to eat. The people have suffered. It was not done to the standards of living, but Russia has succeeded, in a remarkably short time, in creating an industrial nation."

Hindus paid major attention to the Game Department's War on Cats Backed by U. S. Rat-Killing Expert

The Georgia department of game and fish, which went into hot water when it announced a campaign for extermination of stray cats, has found an unexpected ally in a government agency concerned mostly with the extermination of rats.

The cats are traditionally supposed to do rat killing.

Carr, in charge of rodent control for the United States department of agriculture in Georgia and Florida, was drawn into the disagreement between the state department and cat lovers, by accusations that the rat poison carried by cats was helping the game and fish department toward its goal. Numerous persons wrote in to complain that the poison was getting about as many cats as rats.

Carr denied any such thing was happening. He said red squill, the poison being used, simply won't kill cats, dogs or humans.

INSULL MAY STAY AT SEA A MONTH

orders to report its position periodically during the day.

An earlier message from the vessel, which turned back into Piraeus on government orders Friday, gave its position at 2 a. m. as off the island of Kithos.

It is not expected to get out of territorial waters before noon tomorrow.

At its present slow speed, the Maiois probably would not reach Port Said, if that is her destination, before late Tuesday.

Athens itself heaved a sigh of relief with the affair which troubled the government for nearly 18 months apparently closed, once and for all.

A dispatch from Istanbul said no American yacht had left Istanbul following the report of a Greek newspaper that a yacht might pick up Insull at sea.

The life of the business leader plans to leave early this week for Marseille, it was announced.

Many feel that she has an idea when and where she will be reunited with her husband.

It was revealed that on Thursday night, when feeling was aroused by Insull's escape from his guarded apartment and shorted flight, the government ordered an airplane made ready, equipped with a machine gun, should the Maiois have refused to return.

The airplane, however, never took off.

Speculation was general as to whether Insull would be arrested by the Egyptian government should he put into Port Said.

The second dramatic departure of the little Greek tramp steamer with Insull aboard last night was an anti-climatic development following extended conferences aboard between Insull, his lawyers, and Greek government and port authorities.

Expectations that Insull would be held in Athens, possibly for American authorities, or would be placed on a New York steamer, faded completely when the Maiois pulled out at 1:25 a. m.

Greek authorities informed the government that Insull had been allowed to depart "according to government instructions." Apparently the only reason for ordering the vessel back to Piraeus was to satisfy Greek regulations claimed to have been violated by Insull's secret departure last Wednesday.

Americans and others expressed the belief that Insull had pulled the smartest trick of all in his final clearance. He was not even obliged to tell authorities where he is going. He may decide upon his destination at leisure.

At 5 p. m. today, the little Maiois was reported off the island of Thira, south of the Aegean sea.

Police announced that Mrs. Insull, who took leave of her husband privately just before sailing and then went back to Athens, would not be expelled from the country as previously announced, but that her permit to remain would not be extended.

She probably will leave Wednesday, according to a statement of the Greek lawyer Xeros, one of Insull's counsel, who insisted that her destination was uncertain.

Yesterday, however, Lawyer Pop, another member of counsel, said her destination was Marselles.

Xeros said Insull would be at sea until April 20, "and perhaps longer." The Maiois took on extra fuel supplies and provisions during her stop yesterday, and it was believed the vessel could stop at any number of

B. W. HERRMAN DIES AT HOME IN VIRGINIA

Vice President of Norfolk & Western Had Served Line 50 Years.

ROANOKE, Va., March 18.—(AP)—B. W. Herrman, vice president of the Norfolk & Western Railway Co., in charge of traffic, died at his home here, about noon today. He had been in ill health for some time.

Funeral services will be held at the First Baptist church at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday, conducted by Dr. Walter P. Biens, pastor, assisted by the Rev. Francis Hume Scott, pastor of First Christian church, and the Rev. James R. Bryant, assistant pastor of First Baptist. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery here.

Well known in railroad circles, Mr. Herrman, who rose from the ranks to the position of vice president, was born in Dayton, Ohio, October 10, 1883. He entered the joint employ of the Scioto Valley and the C. C. & St. L. at the age of 15 as messenger in the freight station in Columbus.

On March 4, 1923, Mr. Herrman was presented diamond insignia of the Norfolk and Western Veterans' Association for having completed 50 years of service with the railway.

The presentation was made by A. C. Needles, president of the Norfolk & Western.

'Meanest Thief' Snatches 40c From Four-Year-Old

CHICAGO, March 18.—(UP)—A new candidate for the title of "meanest thief" appeared today in the form of a bandit who stole 40 cents from Albert Vichulis.

Albert is the 4-year-old son of Mrs. Lucille Vichulis, who operates a beauty parlor.

Two bandits entered the parlor, took $250 from the owner and customers and were leaving when one of them noticed Albert.

The child was standing near a wall, clutching something in his tiny fist and apparently just ready to start crying.

"What's that in your hand?" the bandit demanded of the child.

Albert didn't answer, so the bandit made the child open his hand, discovered that he was holding 40 cents, and took it.

Byrne's car was found on a parking lot.

BANKHEAD COTTON BILL IS ASSAILED BY LINDER

Measure Would Make Serfs of Georgia Farmers, Says Governor's Secretary.

The Bankhead cotton production control bill now pending in congress would "complete the job of making peons and serfs of Georgia farmers," T. M. Linder, secretary to Governor Talmadge and considered a likely candidate for Georgia commissioner of agriculture, said in a statement Sunday.

He attacked principally the allocation of production provided in the bill, under which each state's share of a 9,000,000-bale crop would be in proportion to its average crop over the last five years.

Linder said 2,000,000 people live on farms in Georgia, and only 3,000,000 on farms in Texas.

"Certainly," he said, "if we cut loose from every tradition of this country and tell a man what he can plant and what he cannot plant on his own land, the only possible justification for such a course would be the welfare of the people to be affected by such legislation. I do not believe that any Georgia farmer who understands the allocation as made by the Bankhead bill is in favor of such a measure."

In Georgia and the southeast, he went on, the average family's cotton crop is around 15 acres, while in Texas the average is 105, "a large percentage of this cotton being harvested by peon labor brought from old Mexico."

He went into the history of cotton production to show that since 1910 Georgia already has cut cotton acreage 40 per cent, while Texas is increasing 50 per cent, and asserted that the western increase "has been the mill rock around the neck of the cotton market."

"The passage of the Bankhead bill and the allocations provided by it," he said, "mean that more people must desert the farms in Georgia because the Bankhead bill fixes the amount of cotton that a family in Georgia can grow at one-third of the amount that a family in Texas can grow."

REICHWEHR HEADLAUDS 'IMPERIAL ARMY' SPIRIT

BERLIN, March 18.—(AP)—Lieutenant General Werner von Blomberg, commander of the first reichswehr division, told army men today that the spirit of the old imperial army had been resurrected since the advent of Chancellor Hitler.

Speaking to old army regulars at a huge meeting in the sports palace, he said "the spirit of the true comradeship that permeated German World War forces, the spirit of sacrifice and loyalty, has risen again to become a living force among our people."

That spirit, he said, embodied by President Von Hindenburg and Chancellor Hitler, had conquered everything non-German.

Modified Cold Snap Arrives Today With Range of 25 to 38 Degrees

King Winter's legions, executing a belated raid on the southeast, have detoured via Texas, with the probable result that the cold wave will be modified by the time it reaches north Georgia today, the United States weather bureau announced Sunday night.

Freezing weather with temperatures as low as 20 degrees had been predicted for Sunday afternoon, but the unusual path taken by the cold wave in the southeast, the cold wave bringing its force to the extent that the minimum this morning probably will be above 25 degrees, the weather bureau said.

The cold snap will be of short duration, as an area of low pressure is forming already in the northwest, and Tuesday should see the last of the cold weather, the bureau predicted. Drifting rapidly to the southwest instead of following the usual path to the southeast, the cold wave brought snow, sleet and ice to middle Texas, and sent the thermometer hurtling down to 20 degrees and lower in Oklahoma and north Texas Sunday.

"Certainly," he said, "if we cut loose from every tradition of this country and tell a man what he can plant and what he cannot plant on his own land, the only possible justification for such a course would be the welfare of the people to be affected by such legislation. I do not believe that any Georgia farmer who understands the allocation as made by the Bankhead bill is in favor of such a measure."

In Georgia and the southeast, he went on, the average family's cotton crop is around 15 acres, while in Texas the average is 105, "a large percentage of this cotton being harvested by peon labor brought from old Mexico."

THE FEDERAL FIGHT ON CRIME.

A review of the laws suggested by Attorney-General Cummings in order that the federal government may give maximum co-operation to state and local law-enforcement agencies, reveals the determination of the government to lend every possible aid in the arrest and conviction of kidnapers, racketeers and other denizens of the underworld.

These proposed laws would further restrict the sale of firearms; extend the scope of the motor vehicle theft act; provide heavy punishment for those robbing member banks of the federal reserve system; authorize the federal government to enter any kidnapping case in which the victim is not returned in three days, and protect interstate commerce from the racketeer.

Other features of the measure designed for the purpose of making it more difficult for guilty persons to escape just punishment, contemplate the elimination of evils arising out of alibi pleas; the limitation of the right of appeal, and the exclusion of dilatory tactics of all kinds; and the removal of many of the legal technicalities which criminals now resort either to gain their freedom or to long postpone the meeting out of punishment for their depredations.

The attorney-general holds that since crime in its present highly organized state, has become national, disregarding state lines, that suppression, effectively to be applied, must also ignore state boundaries. He feels that the federal government should be charged with the arrest and punishment of all those who transport across state lines stolen goods amounting to more than $1,000; that the kidnaper and racketeer must be the special prey of federal officers, and that the government should seek out and return witnesses who flee from one state to another in order to avoid testifying.

It is stressed that the suggested laws are not intended to "invite the political subdivisions of our country to refer their own problems of law enforcement to the federal government . . . but serious consideration must be given to the development of supplementary laws, clearly within constitutional limits, which will strengthen the arm of the law-enforcing agencies of the country upon the basis of more efficient co-operative effort."

With the development of the country during the past quarter of a century, and especially the facilities for rapid transportation, the old method of crime suppression by each community has become antiquated and inadequate.

When those who committed crimes were forced to hide out in the localities in which the crimes were committed, or at best could make but a slow get-away, local authorities could cope with the underworld. Now when a crime can be committed and the guilty persons, through use of high-powered automobiles, or even, as has been the case, the airplane, officers with no authority outside of their own vicinity are generally faced by an insurmountable handicap.

The widening of the field of activities of federal officers will permit them, working in conjunction with local officers, to nullify the advantage which high-speed transportation has given to the modern criminal.

For many years every other major nation in the world has possessed a national police organization of some nature. Modern conditions make them necessary for the proper handling of crime, and congress should enact legislation setting one up.

CROONERS.

We haven't got the breed in Europe. All we have heard is the denunciations against crooners scattered about by classical maestros and clergymen. I remember reading a denunciation of crooning by Walter Damrosch in which he said that "crooners should be boiled in oil."

A man must be pretty wicked if he merits such barbarous treatment. Then I read that the cardinal-archbishop of New York had hurled the thunderbolt of immortality against crooning. All these things made me curious and one of the first things I did in the United States after settling in my hotel was to turn on the ubiquitous radio and listen for the mysterious crooner.

Well, I heard several of them by now. The modern crooner is the direct descendant of the mediaeval minstrel or troubadour. The troubadour disappeared in the upheaval of the French revolution. He has been resurrected by the industrial transformation that is going on now. The troubadour was a wandering minstrel, a street singer, a cross between a minstrel and a street singer, a cross between a minstrel and a street singer.

HEAT WAVE.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The most startling indictments are yet to come. Insiders have been told to hold their breath for three new ones to be announced within a few days. These indictments are said to involve two nationally-known financial men and a very prominent republican, all of whom have had banking troubles together.

The case has been worked up very quietly by the justice department's punishment squad. The squad members believe the indictments are certain. If the indictments do come, the accused trio will be fully competent financially and politically to sing with the Mellon-Lamont-Walker-Sidlo income tax quartet.

It looks like a hot spring, especially for republicans.

SILVER Certain prominent democrats may feel the heat also if Treasury Secretary Morgenthau turns his silver speculation data over to Prosecutor Pecora for public inquiry. There is also another stock market matter which may come out soon, causing other democrats to perspire freely.

The decision in the silver matter is supposed to rest on the question whether Mr. Morgenthau's data is sufficiently conclusive to warrant a public exposure. There seems to be no ground for any suspicion that political considerations are holding the matter back. It has gone too far for that.

The silver cloud will probably have a dark lining.

ADVOCATES The reason the Young Anthony Advocates are called that is: They are a group of exceptionally able young barristers who are advocates by nature. They are not merely lawyers, judging and preparing legal conceptions, but skillful workers for strong reform principles.

From the master of their school, Felix Frankfurter, they have absorbed such zeal that they are content to work in obscurity in the government service for a pittance in order to accomplish their reform objectives.

In old English plays each member of the cast was named for the character he portrayed. The villain was called "Mr. Snake," the laager "Mr. Sloth," the hero "Mr. Handsome," the barrister "Mr. Advocate."

The Anthony part of it stands for purity.

BALM These wholesale resignations from the democratic national committee are not as important as they seem. There is a rule in the national committee that resigned members serve until their successors are chosen.

Also there is quite a question whether the influence of any important committee member is altered by resignation. For instance, the law business of Arthur Mullen and his political power in Nebraska will hardly be changed much by his resignation.

The root of the matter seems to be that the house-cleaning was started by the president to get one particular individual out of the house. When that was accomplished, the administration was satisfied but outsiders set up such a howl that the house-cleaning had to be carried through to a rather meaningless conclusion.

STRIKE? The soothsayers are betting there will not be an automobile strike. They smile at the dire threats going back and forth between the industry and the A. F. of L.

The industry is in the midst of spring production, its best time of year. A strike would be very costly. It may talk big, but it will do everything reasonably possible to avoid a strike.

From that standpoint the time is opportune for labor, but otherwise it is not. Public opinion is the most powerful weapon that labor has in strikes. But popular opinion will hardly support a voluntary spread of unemployment now. The government likewise may not support it, as it is now already contributing to the livelihood of about one out of every six or seven persons in the country.

The matter is expected to be referred and referred, first to boards and then to votes of employees and then to someone else.

RAILS The railroad code situation smacks of somewhat the same inner condition. As soon as the railroads agree not to press their demands for a 45 per cent wage cut, there will be less talk about getting them in under a code.

NOTES There is a new high official in the NRA who was one of the original technocracy boys. They were the ones, you may remember, who got a lot of attention two years ago with their idea of a new super-state. The fact that their idea has been so soon forgotten shows how far we have progressed.

They thought up a brilliant scheme in Washington to curtail drinking. A regulation was adopted preventing drinks from being mixed in sight of patrons. The only result is that the patrons get everything from dishwater to eau de cologne under the guise of liquor.

There is a movement afoot to award a temperance prize to the whiskey dealers because they have done more in that line than anyone else by being unable to get their prices down.

THE PIONEER WORKED HARD, BUT NOBODY GAVE HIM ORDERS TO DO IT

By Robert Quillen

When reformers attempt to improve the lot of mankind, they usually overlook the fact that one man's meat is another's poison.

When Henry Ford established a generous minimum wage for his employees, some of the foreign-born among them refused to quit the ways of poverty.

They enjoyed the herd intimacy of three families in a room; they regarded modern sanitation as an invasion of their rights; and they stoutly refused to be uplifted into the misery of cleanliness.

The sloping side of a volcano seems the ideal place of residence to those who were born there.

And that quirk of human nature is the greatest obstacle now confronting the well-meaning gentlemen who would solve the problem of unemployment by moving town people "back to the land."

One who escapes the city's clamor will exclaim: "What blessed peace and quiet here in the open!" But another will moan: "It's so horribly lonely, and the silence is like a tomb."

But whatever the city worker may think of "the sticks," there is one consideration, usually overlooked, that soon may come to outweigh all disadvantages.

The government may tell the countryman how much wheat or cotton he can raise, but in other particulars he remains as free as the pioneers were.

4 PERISH AS STORM

WASHES SPAIN'S COAST

Great Destruction Caused as Waves Pound at Ocean Town.

MADRID, March 18.—(AP)—Terrific storms swept the Atlantic coast today, causing at least four deaths and much destruction.

Boats scurried for safety but a number of fishing craft were destroyed. Four persons drowned in a crew of five when the fishing boat Ayomonte was dashed to pieces near Cristina Island.

In the harbor at Algeciras, the town of Cangas-Demora destroyed many homes fringing the ocean.

The fishing steamer San Juan was destroyed off Santander, but no lives were lost. Nearly all Asturias ports were closed.

A British squadron of 137 ships, engaged in Atlantic maneuvers, was in the harbor at Algeciras, forced there by the storm. Reports said several sailors and two officers of the squadron had been washed overboard.

PLYMOUTH, England, March 18.—(AP)—The trans-Atlantic liner Lafayette arrived tonight, eight hours late, heavily battered by a tremendous gale.

The vessel's master estimated the wind velocity at 100 miles an hour. He said waves 70 feet high smashed the ship, wrecked furniture and flooded cabins. The ship heeled alarmingly and hove to for five hours.

ARMY MAIL PILOTS WILL HOP TODAY

At that time, 10 had been killed, although only four were actually carrying the mail. That number was increased to 11 yesterday when Lieutenant R. C. Richardson plunged to his death near Cheyenne, Wyo., while on a test flight.

President Roosevelt and congressional leaders including Senator McKellar, of Arkansas, and Chairman McNamara, of the senate postoffice committee, held a round table discussion of the air mail situation and legislation at the White House this afternoon.

Branches of the postoffice department, Harlee Branch, assistant postmaster in charge of air mail, presented the views of the postoffice department.

The conference followed a week of testimony before the senate postoffice committee, which brought opinions from such prominent figures as Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Clarence Chamberlin and Colonel Eddie Rickenbacker.

This led to the belief that one of the major purposes of the meeting was to consider amendments to the existing permanent air mail bill and emergency act.

The senate postoffice committee will continue its hearings tomorrow, with private operators appearing as witnesses.

Since army flights were cancelled a week ago, Major General Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the air corps, has made drastic changes in the air mail organization. Routes to be flown have been reduced from 18 to 8 and to approximately one-fourth of the mileage flown by commercial operators.

Planes, equipment and men for the modified service have been carefully selected. Blind and night flying have been installed in all planes. Additional radio facilities from ground to air have been placed in planes on transcontinental routes and will be installed in all other planes as soon as possible.

After a personal flying inspection over the eastern and central zones, and a conference with all zone commanders in Chicago, Foulois announced that "everything is in readiness to resume operations."

Brigadier General Oscar Westover, chief of mail operations, tonight expressed himself as satisfied that the air corps was "all set" and would perform its duty with efficiency and safety.

Routes on which service will be resumed tomorrow are: Boston to New York; New York to Atlanta and Jacksonville; Chicago to Dallas, Salt Lake City to San Diego; Salt Lake City to Seattle and Portland; Cheyenne to

COUNTY OFFICERS PLAN TAX RELIEF

Service Without Tax Imposition To Be Basis of Athens Conference.

ATHENS, Ga., March 18.—To discuss how Georgia counties can continue giving public service to their inhabitants without imposing an unbearable burden upon taxpayers within the counties, a state-wide conference of county commissioners will be held here April 4-5.

The meeting, sponsored by the Georgia Association of County Commissioners and Institute of Public Affairs, will be held at the University of Georgia.

The following will take part on the program: Ben E. Pierce, Richmond county; Judge Frank Gabels, Habersham county; J. F. Pittman, Thomas county; P. B. Lewis Jr., Burke county; C. A. Matthews, DeKalb county; A. K. Keith, Meriwether county; George F. Longmire, Fulton county; J. J. Whitfield, Pulaski county; George Hamilton, state treasurer; Tom Wisdom, state auditor; Paul W. Wagner, University of North Carolina; Arthur W. Solomon, Chattanooga county; Graham Wright, Floyd county; Orrville Park, Macon; C. M. Strahan, Clarke county; and Percy Youmans, Decatur county.

Georgia News Told in Brief

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 18.—(AP) Arrived: Helen, gulf. Sailed: Gulfman, Port Arthur.

Valdosta To Cut Expenses. VALDOSTA, Ga., March 18.—Eminent consideration is being given the 1934 budget by Mayor J. D. Ashby's administration. While the figures have not yet been made public it is understood that drastic cuts have been made in all departments, and following this the administration will put on a movement to enforce the payment of all over-due city taxes. It is pointed out that at this time approximately $121,000 tax money is due the city.

Jewel Thief Transferred. VALDOSTA, Ga., March 18.—Rosalie Franklin, young Atlanta girl, recently convicted here in connection with the holdup of the Thompson & Girardin jewelry store, has been transferred from the Lowndes county jail to the state prison farm, at Milledgeville, where she will serve her sentence of one year. Louis Voltz and Louis Collett, two young men convicted in connection with the same holdup and sentenced to serve 25 years each, have not yet been assigned to a prison camp.

U. S. Urged to Buy Lot. VALDOSTA, Ga., March 18.—Local interests are endeavoring to convince the postoffice department at Washington of the advisability of purchasing the lot west of the present Valdosta federal building. An amount of money aggregating $90,000 has been set aside for the improvements of the Valdosta plant and the movement at present is to divert a portion of this for the purchase of additional space to take care of the enlargement.

Students To Hear Judge. VALDOSTA, Ga., March 18.—For the remainder of the year Judge W. E. Thomas, of the southern circuit, expects to invite high school students in each county in the circuit to hear his charges to grand juries. He hopes by this method to impress the young people with the importance of grand juries, trial juries and the courts, in connection with the enforcement of law for the protection of society.

CWA Entertainment. BARNESVILLE, Ga., March 18.—All CWA foremen, supervisors and assistants, members of the city council and their wives; physicians and their wives; pastors and wives, were entertained with a barbecue by the CWA office force and Mrs. C. H. Matthews, county administrator, Saturday afternoon at the log cabin on Gordon Institute property. About 150 guests enjoyed the affair.

F. W. Tullis Recovering. VALDOSTA, Ga., March 18.—E. W. Tullis, manager of the Bell Telephone exchange in this city, is recovering from a serious injury he received on the highway between Valdosta and Tifton Friday night. After regaining some of his strength Mr. Tullis was brought to this city, where he is slowly recovering.

SPANISH GUARDS SLAY LONG-BOUGHT BANDIT

MADRID, March 18.—(AP)—The notorious and long-sought bandit, Párrido Largo, has been killed in his mountain retreat by civil guards, the government was advised today by the civil governor of Malaga.

Cornered after a hunt of many months, Largo was slain when he attempted to shoot his way to safety.

White Paper Making Industry Headed for South, Says Chemist

MACON, Ga., March 17.—(AP)—"Untold resources of pine pulpwood and kaolin in middle Georgia await the southward trend of the high-grade paper manufacturing industry," W. F. Allen, chief chemist for Dr. Charles H. Herby's successful experiments with Georgia pine paper, said here tonight.

"The white paper industry," he said, "is definitely coming south and its speed depends entirely on the interest Georgians show in drawing mills down here."

Here to supervise a local exhibit from Dr. Herby's Savannah laboratories, Mr. Allen showed why he believed development of both the newspaper and book paper industries would answer President Roosevelt's 4-point program for re-employment, reforestation, farm relief and use of Muscle Shoals power.

"Although our laboratories are located at Savannah, our activities are statewide, for recent experiments have shown us we can do just as much with ordinary long leaf pine found all over the state as we have thus far done with loblolly pine, provided it is free of heart," Mr. Allen said.

"In view of the fact that newspaper can be made at lower cost and shipped by water transportation to eastern markets at much lower rates, I am inclined to believe that the coastal region has an advantage over middle Georgia in the manufacture of ordinary newspaper."

However, in Macon and vicinity is the ideal location for production of high-grade book and bond paper, bleached and unbleached, because of untold pulp resources," he said.

State Deaths And Funerals

MISS CRISTELLE DAVIS. VALDOSTA, Ga., March 18.—Funeral services were held this afternoon for Miss Cristelle Davis, 21, who met a tragic death late Friday night in an automobile accident while returning with a party of young people from a dinner at Pike Pond Club, south of this city.

She was a member of a well-known family and a graduate of the Valdosta High school and completed her education at the Georgia State Woman's College, at Valdosta. She was a member of the Lee Street Baptist church and the funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. C. Tyle, the pastor, and the interment was in Sunset Hill cemetery.

The survivors include Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Davis, her parents; three sisters, Miss E. K. Cooley, Miss Mary Davis and Miss Frances Davis, all of Valdosta, and four brothers, Felton Davis and Leon Davis, both of Thomasville, and W. A. Davis and Robert Davis, Valdosta.

CHARLES C. PUCKETT. LAGRANGE, Ga., March 18.—The death of Charles Leslie Puckett occurred here at the residence of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Puckett, early Saturday morning after an illness of about nine weeks.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at the United Congregational Christian church, with Rev. J. H. Dollar, pastor of the church, officiating. Burial followed in Hillview annex.

The deceased was born in Coweta county but had lived in Lagrange almost his entire life. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Maggie Lester Puckett; a son, Charles Joe Puckett; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Puckett.

HARPER CONVICTED OF ARSON AT CAIRO

3-Year Term Given Man in "Insurance-Fire" Trial at Thomasville.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 18.—Will Harper, well-known Grady county citizen, on trial in Grady county superior court the past week charged with arson in connection with the burning several months ago of the Farmers Peanut Company building of Cairo, was convicted after a lengthy legal battle. The penalty was fixed at one to three years, the jury deliberating only about one hour.

Three men were indicted in connection with this case. They were Fred Carroll, Tom Tyus and Will Harper, the latter being tried first. Carroll was the majority stockholder in the peanut company and Tyus is a nephew of Harper. Tyus, it is stated, took the stand and admitted the crime, stating that he and Harper cut the city water main off, saturated the building with gasoline and that Harper broke a window and threw in a lighted match which ignited the building. Harper, however, denied any connection with the fire and attempted to prove an alibi, producing witnesses who swore that they had seen him on the night of the fire near Faceville, Ga.

The buildings which were destroyed housed gin machinery which, it is stated, was admittedly 20 years old, and the state prosecuted the case on the grounds that the motive was to collect insurance which totaled some $22,500.

Judge Ira Carlisle, of Cairo, and Baxter Jones, of Macon, represented the defense, while W. H. Duckworth, of Cairo, and Frank Forrester, solicitor of the Thomasville city court, aided Robert Short, solicitor-general of that circuit, in prosecution of the case.

There were 70 Scouts in three troops. In the two troops at Phenix City, Ala., which also comes under the jurisdiction of the local council, there were 10 Scouts.

Further information brought out in the survey shows that of the boys in Columbus and the vicinity of scouting age who were questioned, 1,340 stated that they would like to become Scouts. Of the boys between the years of 9 and 11, 599 indicated a desire to join the Cubs, a junior auxiliary of the Scouts.

SCOUTS TO ORGANIZE COUNCIL AT COLUMBUS. COLUMBUS, Ga., March 18.—A resolution to reorganize a Scout council in the city was passed by a citizens committee today, who had met for the purpose of hearing the results of a survey on scouting conditions in the city made by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In the five troops in the city, there are 70 Scouts, while at Fort Ben-

Philharmonic Group To Present 'Robin Hood' in Athens Tonight

The Atlanta Philharmonic Society, numbering more than 100 of the city's most notable singers and instrumentalists, will present DeKoven's tuneful opera, "Robin Hood," in Athens tonight, at the Pound auditorium. The engagement is under the auspices of the Athens Lions' Club, and all proceeds will go toward its charity fund. Three busses have been engaged to carry the artists to Athens.

On Wednesday night the Philharmonic Society will present "Robin Hood" in Athens at the Westley Memorial hall. The score of "Robin Hood" is a treasure chest of tuneful melodies. Among its gems is one of the most popular songs ever composed—"O Promise Me"—a song probably more closely associated with weddings than with this comic opera.

The soloists to be heard include T. Stanley Perry, tenor, in the title role; Lois Lewis, soprano, as "Maid Marian"; Sarah Harper, contralto, as "Allan-a-Dale"; Bernice Johnson, soprano, as "Anabelle"; Ed Wilson, bass, as "The Sheriff of Nottingham"; George Downman, tenor, as "Sir Guy"; Ray Werner, baritone, as "Little John"; Paris Lee, bass, as "Will Scarlet"; Coleman Kimbrough, baritone, as "Friar Tuck"; and Lena Mae Fairman, contralto, as "Dame Durdene."

These artists are representative of the best church singers in the city, and each has had experience in either opera, oratorio, concert or radio. Professor L. G. Nilson, director of the public school music, is the director of the Philharmonic Society.

Tickets for the Athens engagement are now on sale at the Cable Piano Company.

TWO MORE ARRESTED In Stavisky Inquiry. PARIS, March 18.—(AP)—A new sensation in the prince murder mystery kept alive national excitement over the Stavisky affair today, continuing to feed popular expressions of political indignation.

Two operators of a Paris gambling club, Eugene Tribout and Adrien Cerf, were arrested and Tribout's two automobiles were seized.

They were charged with receiving money from Stavisky or from one of his associates. Police sought to establish the movements of the two machines on the night Judge Albert Prince was murdered at Dijon.

The gambling club was supposed to be one of Stavisky's manifold enterprises.

POPE WILL CANONIZE TWO SAINTS TODAY. VATICAN CITY, March 18.—(AP) The climax of Holy Year ceremonies for hundreds of American pilgrims will come tomorrow when Pope Pius presides at ceremonies for the joint canonization of two saints dear to American Catholics and one who is better known in Italy.

The trio of blessed to be elevated to sainthood are Teresa Marcherita Redi, before her death a Carmelite nun of Florence; Father Pomilio Maria Pirrotti, one-time confessor to the Scapoli Institute, and Father Giuseppe Benedetto Cottolengo, founder of the Institute of the Divine Providence of Turin.

SMITHSONIAN EXPERT FIXES DESOTO ROUTE

Dr. John R. Swanton Avers Explorer Crossed Occanee Above Dublin.

MACON, Ga., March 18.—(AP)—The long-sought site of DeSoto's crossing of the Occanee river, nearly 400 years ago, has been "confidently" established at Carr's Shoal, six miles above Dublin, Dr. John R. Swanton, Smithsonian's leading authority on Indians of the southeast, announced here Saturday.

"I feel thoroughly confident," Dr. Swanton said, "that DeSoto's expedition on April 17, 1540, forded with some difficulty the Occanee river at what is now Carr's Shoal."

He said his final decision was based on exhaustive examinations of the site, the testimony of the oldest residents of the community as to the condition of the river before the federal government deepened the channel, and the circumstantial corroboration of original narratives of the expedition.

Dr. Swanton said he traced DeSoto's course up the Ocmulgee river about as far as what is now Hawkinsville, where the Spanish explorer is believed to have led his some 600 followers to the east, across the Occanee at Carr's Shoal, and thence to a point on the Savannah river about 12 miles below Augusta.

"The two most authoritative narratives of the expedition are those of Rodrigo Rangel and a gentleman of Elvas," Dr. Swanton said. "There seems to be no other point along the river which answers as well to the descriptions set forth in these original accounts."

"Captain W. W. Ward, of Dublin, furnished me with valuable information as the condition of the river channel before the government dredged it. His description of the crossing is in substantial agreement with those of the early narrators."

Dr. Swanton said he will leave early this week for Washington, but plans stops at Atlanta, Murphy, N. C., and Knoxville, Tenn.

American Turpentine Stirs French Unrest

PARIS, March 18.—(AP)—American turpentine today caused a fresh outbreak of political unrest, lingering in France since the Paris riots of early February.

Fifteen thousand workers of south-western France, parading behind red flags at Mont de Marsan, threatened "more drastic action" unless the government protected the French turpentine industry against United States competition.

CORNERSTONE IS LAID FOR SAVANNAH HOME. SAVANNAH, Ga., March 18.—The cornerstone of a home for aged men, to be operated by the Silver Cross circle of the King's Daughters and Sons, was laid here Saturday before a large assembly by the Solomon lodge of the Masons. Robert M. Hitch delivered the principal message, complimenting Percival S. Cohen, who bequested the building possible.

The new home, only partly completed, will house 50 men, funds having been furnished by the Citizens & Southern bank, executors of the Cohen estate.

"I KNEW Which Low-Priced Car To Buy... I helped build All Three!"

READ THIS CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH B. V. FRIEDMAN OF DETROIT, MICHIGAN

"Let the other fellow drive without Hydraulic Brakes and a Safety-Steel Body"

WE HEARD that Mr. Friedman practically lived in his car... driving sometimes 12 hours at a stretch... averaging 150 miles a day in his business. We went out to see him.

We asked if he "looked at All Three" before buying Plymouth.

"Looked at them?... Mister, I've helped build All Three! I know them inside out. And just to make sure, I drove each one 100 miles."

This owner says he demands two things above all others in a car. He wants comfort and he wants a car that's safe!

Naturally Plymouth's Floating Power engine mountings and Individual Wheel Springing appealed to him. No more engine vibration...

and no more bumpy rides to tire him out or to injure the delicate radio apparatus he carries in his car.

And, of course, anybody who knows cars as he does is sold on Hydraulic Brakes and Safety-Steel Bodies. "I'll let the other fellow drive without them," he says, "but I'm not taking chances... I want the safest car I can get."

There's not much we can add to Mr. Friedman's convincing story. But we urge you to do this—"Look at All Three before you buy."

This year there's a surprising difference in low-priced cars. And you don't need to be an expert mechanic to see the difference!

Any Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer will be glad to demonstrate Plymouth—any day.

1. "I was born in the 'Motor City,' Detroit's my home town, and I've worked in the shops of 'All Three.' You bet I know the low-priced cars inside out!"

2. "But just to make sure—I drove 'All Three' of the low-priced cars 100 miles each over the toughest roads I could find. Believe me, Plymouth has 'em all beat on performance. And I'm sold on Plymouth's Hydraulic Brakes and Safety-Steel Body, too!"

3. "I operate Broadcasting Cars. And Floating Power engine mountings cut out vibration that would ruin our delicate radio equipment. A vibrationless car also means a lot in comfort to a man who's in a car as much as I am."

4. PICTURED ABOVE is the De Luxe Plymouth 4-door Sedan. Plymouth prices begin at $495 f.o.b. factory, Detroit, Michigan, and are subject to change without notice. For the smallest extra charge in the industry (only $10 extra on De Luxe Sedan) you can get improved Duplate Safety Plate Glass throughout your car.

And So the Russian Captain Gave Turkish Captain--Roses!

Mr. Maurice Hindus was talking about football and roses. This is a new subject and not to be confused with moonlight and roses.

Mr. Hindus was in Moscow last summer when the Russian football team played the Turkish team. There were some 200,000 Russians in the stands. There would have been more but even the Russians, expert as they are, cannot make elastic stands.

When the Russian football team came on the field the captain carried a double armful of roses which he trotted across the field and presented to the Turkish captain. The Russians applauded.

I kept thinking what might happen in this country. I thought specifically of Mr. Mike Chambers, the Hibernian, who trains the Georgia Tech team. And I wondered what Mr. Chambers would do, say, in the Tech-Vanderbilt game if the Vanderbilt captain were to trot across and present a nosegay to the Tech captain. I am very much afraid that Mr. Chambers would pirouette with hand on hip and say, in a falsetto voice, "Yoo hoo, you sissy So and So."

It was a pleasure to talk with Mr. Hindus. He is an able gentleman and I think, the finest lecturer in the game. He could make a living acting if he chose. And he is an able writer. And he likes cucumbers. That is a bond. I like people who like cucumbers. And who defend the humble cucumber against those who spread the calumny that cucumbers are indigestible. The Russians have a passion for cucumbers. I think there must be some Russian blood in me somewhere.

It is refreshing to learn that the Russians are turning to sport. All civilized people do. They turn to sport and the sport pages. For a while I was worried about Russia. They were contemplating putting on a workers' Olympic. This would have been a contest between workers in the tractor and automobile plants. And the shoemakers and the pants makers. Instead of the shotputters and the dashers. I am glad they got away from this idea and turned to sport.

THE GALS IN RUSSIA.

The girls in Russia are going in for sport. In a big way. Even the omnipotent Babe Didrikson would be in a bad way in Russia. The Russians are promoting the development of Amazons. This disturbs me again. I hold with Mr. Paul Gallico, who wrote a story entitled, "Muscle Molls, You Can Have Them."

But Russia is going in for wholesale development of muscle molls.

The Babe Didrikson of Russia is Miss Nina Karharkine. She has a swell build, if the camera hasn't lied, and her hair is bobbed and blonde.

Miss Karharkine recently won the title in Russia. The highest award is first in "Ready for Work or Defense." One must pass innumerable athletic tests to win the medal. The 500 meters must be run in 2 minutes 10 seconds or less. Races must be climbed for a distance of three meters. Rowing standards are varied. The gas-mask drill, swimming, tennis, gymnastics, skiing, skating, gymnastics of all sorts and other sports are included.

This is why I say that even the indefatigable and ubiquitous Babe Didrikson would be discouraged in Russia. Miss Karharkine would make our Miss Didrikson appear weak and inept.

This is very discouraging to this reporter. I agree with Mr. Gallico. "Muscle Molls--You Can Have Them." But the Russians are going ahead. There is nothing one can do about it.

THE GREATEST FANS.

I am given to understand that the overemphasis of sport is carried on with great enthusiasm in Russia.

It is nothing to find the ex-peasant women of 60 years of age and more, clad in home-embroidered aprons, headkerchiefs, voluminous skirts and the like, go through the setting-up exercises which are a part of each city's recreational program.

This is comforting. The important minds of our country often have looked askance at sport. Time was when sport, and any connection with it, was looked upon as being quite coarse indeed. But the serious minds like Russia. And Russia is going in for mass sports. The grandmothers of the United States do not take setting-up exercises in public. I am inclined to cheer the soviets.

THE GOVERNMENT FOOTS THE BILL.

The government foots the bill in Russia. One item of government expense last year was the purchase of 900,000 tennis balls for the factory workers.

It seems to me that this is much more of a sensible expenditure and more worthy of a budget than many of the things which our congress puts on the public bill each year.

In fact I am one of those idealists who believes that it would be much better to fire congress and leave the entire matter to Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt. I think he would look with favor on a bill for tennis balls and footballs. And baseballs. It is less objectionable than a bill for some of our oil wells and other scandals which are being uncovered.

The government has built some 4,000 stadia, formed hundreds of athletic clubs, and fosters the 28,500 sports organizations, the 2,000 athletic fields.

The girls are going for sport in a big way. I dislike this, being of the same mind as Mr. Gallico. You may have the muscle molls. (Miss Eleanor Holm and Miss Louisa Robert were the only ones I ever saw who made the pulse beat faster.)

But on the whole I am cheering the U. S. S. R. And what a smart man that fellow Hindus is. "The best newspaper writing in America is found on the sports pages," he said. Clever people, these Russians.

GRAY IS WINNER OF WEST END MEDAL SHOOT

Southern Waxed Paper Team Beats Beck and Gregg Shooters.

By Jack Troy.

It seems that almost everybody who is anybody in Atlanta skeet shooting was hunkering at the West End Gun Club yesterday afternoon. Even the popular rifle shooter, Buddy Jones, was there.

Jones came late, however, and it is popularly believed that this was so the little children would not become frightened and insist that mama take them away from the bogey man.

At any rate, it was a great shoot. The attendance, both from standpoint of spectators and shooters, set a record for the West End club.

It was really the best day for skeet shooting Atlanta has had in many weeks. And this was reflected in the crowd. A fine time was had by all.

GREAT TEAM MATCH.

The super-special attraction of the March medal shoot was a two-team race between teams representing Beck & Gregg and the Southern Waxed Paper team.

Despite C. L. Davis' scintillating 12x25 in the first round, the paper company team went ahead and with rare fortitude defeated Captain Al Freese's hardware handlers, 105 to 101, in the 50-yard event. H. C. Moore judged the event.

THE SCORES.

BECK & GREGG, 80. WAXED PAPER, 105. Beck & Gregg, 80. Waxed Paper, 105. Beck & Gregg, 80. Waxed Paper, 105. Beck & Gregg, 80. Waxed Paper, 105.

Jack Gray, the splendid airport skelter, came first in the scratch division by winning. Gray stepped out with a 49x50. Jack Tway was second with 46. And Al Freese and Benson Freeman tied for third place with 44.

Dr. T. Malone and yours truly fought it out in the handicap division and wound up in a tie, each with 52x50. This unfinished business will be transacted next Sunday. There's a medal for the winner.

CLOSE RACE.

The competition was close. H. O. Davis, Sr., J. M. Nelson and Bill Healey each had 51. And J. C. Galhoun had a 50. R. J. Minehan was next with 49. Other scores included Lawrence Rich, 48; L. E. Draper, 48; T. Duke, 48; C. L. Davis, 44, and S. W. Roper, 44.

Four straight were recorded during the day. Buddy Jones last round-up at dusk provided the final one of the day. Others breaking all 25 included Jack Gray, Jack Tway and Your Uncle Al Freese.

For shooters not registered in the competition, P. M. Gilbert gave far and away the best exhibition. He broke 48x50. Other scores were Archie Comer, 48; R. F. Fambro, 30; J. T. Mitchell, 30; R. J. Ivey, 28; H. C. Moore, 43; Pat Gallagher, 40; S. Dennard, 18; P. B. Rowland, 24; C. R. Flynn, 37; Duncan Peck, 20; G. P. Jenkins, 30; Jimmy Harding, 35, and Guy Payne, 39.

The single rounders were led by Buddy Jones' straight. Other scores were as follows: R. L. Boggs, 12; J. R. Wofford, 19; Al Freese Jr., 11; G. F. Johnson, 19; T. G. Parsons, 19; John Burke, 19; J. M. Simmons, 9; C. C. Crow, 7; H. T. Crow, 6; O. M. Smith, 4; Mrs. W. M. Fambro, 0; T. Barry, 19.

LAGRANGE VISITOR.

G. P. Jenkins, of Lagrange, brother-in-law of Benson Freeman, visited the club. A first-timer at skeet, Mr. Jenkins had two excellent rounds of 16 and 20. It appears to run in the family. T. G. Parsons, 19; H. T. Crow, 7; O. M. Smith, 4; Mrs. W. M. Fambro, 0; T. Barry, 19.

Among other visitors were: Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Spearman, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Moss, Mr. and Mrs. Porter McClendon, Mr. and Mrs. A. Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Blacklock, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Darnell, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. McDaniels, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Furbush, Mr. and Mrs. E. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Zachary, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Williams Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Nelson, Mrs. O. T. Malone, Mrs. E. H. Perry, Mrs. C. C. O'Conner, Mrs. H. O. Davis Sr., Mrs. A. G. Fred, Mrs. J. Moore, Mrs. William Healy Jr., Mrs. R. J. Minehan, Mrs. C. W. Jones, Mrs. Clinton Davis, Mrs. T. C. Barry.

Miss Anne Brown, Miss Dora Bowden, Miss Betty Moorman, Miss Faye Clawson, Miss Anne Jones, Miss Ruth McDonald, Miss India Tague, Miss Bernice Martin, Miss Ruth Burges, Miss Joy Burks, Miss Frances Malone, Miss Ruth Nelson, Miss Elsie Burgess.

M. H. Gray, Charles Moss, George Hightower, Buddy Jones Jr., Tom Berry, Richard E. Harbin, Billy Hu Berry, W. C. Whittier, Billy O'Conner, R. L. Patrick, Joe Wofford, M. Austin, C. E. Wright, C. T. Murray, Bill Floyd, T. S. Parsons, B. A. Derrard, Duke and President S. W. Roper.

The girls are going for sport in a big way. I dislike this, being of the same mind as Mr. Gallico. You may have the muscle molls. (Miss Eleanor Holm and Miss Louisa Robert were the only ones I ever saw who made the pulse beat faster.)

But on the whole I am cheering the U. S. S. R. And what a smart man that fellow Hindus is. "The best newspaper writing in America is found on the sports pages," he said. Clever people, these Russians.

COLLEGE SPIRIT OF COCHRANE TO AD TIGERS

Detroit Team's Hopes Rest in Flaming Courage of Leader.

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 18.—(AP) It has been over ten years since Gordon Stanley (Mickey) Cochrane lugged the piskin for old Boston University. Since then he has become the greatest backstop in baseball, played on three championship teams with the Philadelphia Athletics, caught the fireballs of Grove and Earnshaw at their best. All this may have slowed him down a trifle, but no star figure in the major leagues today retains more of the old college spirit or a more dynamic brand of leadership.

Whatever chance the Detroit Tigers have of figuring in the 1934 race for the American league pennant rests chiefly in the flaming personality of Cochrane. As the new player-manager, Mickey is the only outstanding addition to the team he inherits from Bucky Harris, who now bosses the Red Sox. The Tigers traded Jonathan Stone to the champion Washington Senators in exchange for the veteran slugger, Goose Goslin, but it remains to be seen whether this deal will be beneficial. Cochrane thinks it will be, but the critics are skeptical.

Otherwie the club is substantially the same that Harris landed in fifth place, only a few points away from the first division, in 1933. It should be 1-2-3 this year, chiefly because of Cochrane's catching and batting, his aggressive leadership and ability to get the most out of a first-class pitching staff. Few teams in baseball history have ever scaled the heights without an outstanding backstop. Often, a catcher's work has proved the deciding factor. And Detroit is consequently building high hopes upon the black-haired saxophone artist.

The Tiger camp has shown an almost electric response to Cochrane's leadership. Mass calisthenics are the first order of the day's drill and one of the best-equipped ball parks in the grapefruit belt. Mickey's voice and peppy example have every player on the alert. Stone's leisurely habits were a factor influencing his trade to Washington, serving thereby a warning to others on the squad that there is no room for lagards.

The Tigers seem well fortified in the prime elements of pitching and hitting. They will have four power-hitting stars this year, instead of one, Charley Gehringer, brilliant second-sacker who led the club with 325 last year. The additions are Cochrane himself, Goslin, who will have the clean-up spot, and big Hank Greenberg, New York boy whose long-range hitting has taken the first-base assignment away from the smooth-finding Harry Davis. Last year Cochrane hit 222, Greenberg 201 and Goslin 207, considerably below his lifetime mark of 323. Cochrane thinks Greenberg will give Fox a battle for home-run honors.

GREAT STAFF. Despite the disappointing failure of Lynnwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, the Arkansas youth who started off so sensationally last spring, the hurling staff shapes up as one of the best in either big league. The quartet Cochrane relies upon consists of Tommy Bridges, a small bundle of dazzling skill; Fred (Pirpo) Marberry, a modern Joe McGinnity; Charles Fischer, curly-haired southpaw star, and Vic Frazier, obtained from the White Sox last year. Vic Sorrell and Elton Hoggatt are seasoned holdovers. The most promising new-comers are Elden Auker, Luke Hamlin, Steve Larkin and Isidore Goldstein. Larkin may be tagged for important work.

Rowe, considered one of the "finds" of recent years when he came up from the Texas league, barely a year after even seeing his first organized ball game, remains a problem, either for the doctor or a psychoanalyst. He threw his arm out last July. This spring his shoulder developed soreness but no real trouble has been diagnosed. Present indications are he won't do the club much good this year.

The only other serious item concerns third base. Of the two principal candidates, Marvin Owen is handicapped by uncertain health, and Harlan Clifton, by inexperience. Clifton, up for the first time, hit .301 and stole 49 bases with Beaumont in the final furlong to finish in the money. Boardwalkers raced with the pace throughout but was unable to match strides with the leaders when the stretch was reached. On Rush, displaying dazzling speed for the first half mile, was off at the end of the 10-panel journey.

CAPTAIN REX. RALEIGH, N. C., March 18.—(AP) Rex, of Decatur, Ill., a guard, today was elected captain of North Carolina State College's 1935 basketball team.

J. L. Giles, M. J. McCarthy, E. E. Wilson Jr., H. W. Roberts, Roy Vance, George Malone, Billy Malone, Roy Bridges, D. B. Hind, E. R. Daniels, O. H. Jones, Henry Perry, J. M. Felton, Harold Willard, Al Freese Jr., R. L. Patrick, Joe Wofford, M. Austin, C. E. Wright, C. T. Murray, Bill Floyd, T. S. Parsons, B. A. Derrard, Duke and President S. W. Roper.

The girls are going for sport in a big way. I dislike this, being of the same mind as Mr. Gallico. You may have the muscle molls. (Miss Eleanor Holm and Miss Louisa Robert were the only ones I ever saw who made the pulse beat faster.)

STOELEN PLANS DOUBLES PLAY ONLY IN MEET

Giant Star Is To Pair With Lott in Atlanta Event.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—It's "make the Davis cup team or bust" with Lester R. Stoecken, the lanky California giant is not going to let stalemata come between him and the team trials in the middle of spring.

Refreshed by a good night's rest after a busy and profitable afternoon in the Seventh Regiment armory yesterday, when he annexed both the national indoor singles and doubles tennis championships, the blond titan announced today plans for an immediate outdoor campaign which will carry him into the south and southwest, and he hopes, recognition on the international team.

MEETS FRENCH.

The newly crowned indoor king will help carry the Davis cup team against France in three of the five international team matches to be played Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evening in the armory against a foreign force headed by Jean Borotra, and then with his doubles partner, George M. Lott Jr., Chicago, will leave immediately for Atlanta, Ga., where he will compete in the southern invitation, beginning March 26.

"I may only play in the doubles with George in Atlanta," Stoecken said. "I felt pretty tired last night. Mangia had me running all over the court and legs were quite weak after the doubles match. Stoecken defeated Gregory S. Mangia in the singles through champion, 6-1, 8-6, 6-4, and with Lott won from Berkeley Ball and Frank Bowden, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4, in a game of little more than three hours.

From Atlanta Stoecken will travel westward to Houston, Texas, where he will play both singles and doubles in an invitation tournament starting April 2. He played in the 1933 Houston invitation and was eliminated in the semi-finals. His next appearance will be in Pinehurst, N.C., commencing April 10, and from there he will go to White Sulphur for a week's play.

THEN NEW YORK.

After that tour he will return to New York and await the action of the Davis cup team's selection committee, headed by Holcombe Ward and H. Norris Williams, captain. "It is true that indoor tennis," Stoecken said, "is something different from the game played on turf and that the Davis cup players will be picked for their showing in the outdoors. But the results of my first major indoor tournament have so encouraged me that I am confident I can carry on at the same pace and with similar results outdoors.

"At any rate, you can say for me it's make the Davis cup team or bust. Tell the folks back home in California that I'll be seeing them probably in September."

Winn To Battle Lassiter Tonight

The southern and Georgia light-heavyweight wrestling champion, Hugh Winn, will meet Ohio's titleholder, Freddie Lassiter, in the main event of the Fair State arena, Fair State and Capitol avenue.

Lassiter has made a fine impression on the fans in several appearances in Atlanta. An all-around athlete at the University of Michigan, he has brought a new style of mat work to Atlanta that seems to please the fans, who especially like his aggressiveness to tear into any kind of opposition.

Matchmaker Jason Thompson has agreed to the wishes of the two men and the fight will be on a winner-take-all basis, with no holds barred, no time limit and a new referee, Jay Jarvis will likely be the third man in the ring.

Two splendid matches have also been scheduled for tonight in addition to the Winn-Lassiter bout. That able exponent of rough stuff, "Gentleman" John Mauldin, will meet "Tarzan" Jordan in the semi-main event, Mauldin and Jordan will be returning to the Fair State ring after a long absence.

In the opener, "Wild Bill" Collins will meet Glenn Cowan. Collins is well known here, while Cowan will be making his first bow in this ring. Both are able wrestlers, with plenty of ring color of the kind that suits the fans.

Commodore Feds Defeat All-Stars

The Commodore Feds, with Patterson pitching fire-hit baseball, yesterday defeated the Stewart Avenue All-Stars, 4 to 2.

A big third inning in which all four runs were scored decided the game for the Feds, who also were limited to five hits by Winn and Bowker.

England, of the Feds, and Prickett and Huff, of the All-Stars, hit two home runs.

Score by innings:
Stewart Avenue.....000 100 000—2 5 3
Commodore Feds.....000 000 000—4 3 4
Winn, Bowker and Tait, Patterson and Tait.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

ALEX. J. MORRISON

RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN BODY AND HANDS ALWAYS THE SAME.

Alex Morrison says: The idea seems to exist that for one shot the arms have a certain relation to the body and for another shot this relationship is entirely different.

This is not the case! At least not in the correct swings for the various shots.

One point about the position of the left arm will bear this out. The upper part of the fully extended left arm should press against the chest in all swings.

It is only where the player fails to perform the correct body action; where he slights the hand turning of the shoulders that he raises and the club with his arms and hands and thereby separates his arms from his body.

Eaves, Atlanta Boy, Regarded As Tiger Star

By Elmer G. Salter.

AUBURN, Ala., March 18.—A substitute on Auburn's 1933 undefeated freshmen football team, Joel Eaves, an all-around athlete and scholar from Atlanta, Ga., has been showing up so well in the Tigers' spring drills that many predict he will achieve the rank of a regular next season, his first under Coach Jack McGehee.

Eaves, one of six pretty good-looking flankers coming up to the varsity from the first-year squad, stands about three inches over the six-foot mark, weighs around 185 and has potential ability in every department of the game.

He tackles hard and accurately, is a swell pass receiver, is fast covering punts, handles his opposing tackle like he should be handled, and his blocking has shown steady improvement this spring, especially did he flash as a skillful blocker in the Ben-Hughes practice contest of the 1934 spring football training on Drake field last Saturday. One of his effective blocks was in the open field and enabled him to travel unmolested across the goal line in the intra-squad skirmish.

His height makes him particularly valuable as a pass snagger, both on the gridiron and on the practice field. He was a crack center and guard on the Cubs' cage five last season and it is predicted he will reach great heights in the college game.

He is also a hurler of renown on the diamond and a likely looking prospect in the discus on the track and field team.

Being a promising freshmen four-sport athlete does not prevent the talented and gifted Eaves from ranking with the outstanding scholars ever to enroll at Auburn. He averaged well above 90 in his class work for the first semester and many think his scholastic record will rival that of Percy Hester, Auburn's former champion hurdler who averaged 94.12 in the classroom for four years.

Eaves attended Tech High school in Atlanta's east end and was noted for his athletic achievement and for his brilliant scholastic mark.

North and South Play Under Way

PINEHURST, N. C., March 18.—(AP)—A decision by Miss Maureen Orcutt, English teacher at Pinehurst, to defend her title tonight, installed Miss Charlotte Glutting, of East Orange, N. J., in the favorite's role for the women's North and South golf tournament beginning tomorrow.

Miss Orcutt, who usually plays her best at Pinehurst, has won the tournament for the past three years. She has been the champion in the national championship in 1932 and semi-finalist last year, has been here for Pinehurst's annual golf tournament.

A field of 72 will begin qualifying play for the tournament tomorrow, there will be 18 holes qualifying with the low 16 to continue in match play.

Eleven Million Is Bet On Miami Horse Races

By Ted Gill.

MIAMI, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—To the tune of more than eleven million, one-half million dollars in pari-mutuel bets, horse enthusiasts turned depression's tide at scenic Hialeah Park here, which closed yesterday with a colorful Florida Derby Day program, figures released today by the state racing commission showed.

In a 43-day racing season at Joseph E. Widener's plant, a total of $11,692,599 in wagers was pushed through the pari-mutuel windows by bettors who comprised a part of the 374,421 paid attendance. The daily average on betting was $259,835.

The betting this year at the track constituted a gain of $3,653,956 over last year's total of $8,038,643, or an increase of 45.4 per cent. Attendance figures showed an increase over last season's 270,281 or 35.3 per cent or 97,140 persons with a daily average of 8,321.

Tomorrow, horsemen who contributed to the success of Hialeah Park,

GEHRIG CLOUTS SECOND HOMER TO AND YANKS

Cardinals Defeat Giants; House of David Wins Over Browns.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Wally Berger, the Boston Braves' outfielder-slugger, tonight quit the holdout ranks and signed his 1934 contract after a long conference with Emil Fuchs, club president, who has several other dissatisfied players to placate.

Berger, who led the tribal hitters with a .313 average last season, refused to report when offered a contract that called for a $2,500 raise. He demanded a $4,000 boost and quit his Miami winter home only last Friday when Fuchs threatened to fine him $250 for every training session he missed. He will probably be in the Braves' lineup in tomorrow's exhibition against the Cincinnati Reds.

GEHRIG HOMERS. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Aided by Lou Gehrig's second home run of the training season and 14 other assorted wallows, the New York Yankees defeated the Boston Braves, 10 to 4, in a free-swinging exhibition game today.

Old Lou, who also hit for the circuit, driving one past Babe Ruth in the second inning with Pinky Whitney on base to give Boston a 2-0 lead. The Yankees' catcher, Rube Bressler, hit three runs in the third, when Gehrig started things off with a triple, and added another trio in the fourth when he welcomed Leo Mangum with his circuit blow. They finished up with four runs in the sixth.

BROWNS LOSE.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Mike James, pitcher for the House of David baseball team, "slow-balled" the St. Louis Browns into submission here today, 1 to 0.

Not a Brown reached first base until the sixth inning, when Grube singled to left. The fans, who were cheering the major leaguers were toying with their opponents, but such apparently was not the case.

DODGERS WIN.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Swinging seven runs in the first inning, the Brooklyn Dodgers overwhelmed the Rochester Redwings, of the International League, 13 to 6, in an exhibition game today.

The Dodgers, batted around against Virgil Brown in the opening inning, collecting five hits, the last a double by Danny Taylor, that drove in two runs. The game was a local one, marked by nine errors, of which the Redwings contributed six.

VAUGHAN HITS HOMER.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 18.—(AP)—A towering home run on Joe Vaughan, third baseman of the Los Angeles Angels, helped the team to a 4-to-3 victory today over the Hollywood Stars.

Captain Pete Traynor had already scored Paul Waner from third base with a single when the Pirates' shortstop lambasted the ball out of the park.

TIGERS BEATEN.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers went down to a 7-to-0 defeat at the hands of the Boston Red Sox in their first practice game with a major league team today and the worst of it was the Sox were managed by the Tigers' old pilot, Bucky Harris.

Bill Rogell took the batting honors for the Tigers today, lifting a home run in the first inning and a triple in the seventh. Gehrig also got a homer in the third frame. Boston got in most of its heavy hitting against the offerings of Elton Hersh, whom the Sox outplayed for hits and four runs in the span of three innings.

Frazier, Hoggatt, Auker and Hayworth; Walberg, Welland, Rodden and Hinkel.

REDS WIN.

TAMPA, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds shut out the Phillies, 3 to 0, behind the pitching of Stunt, Lindsay and St. Johnson in an exhibition game today.

The four-hit attack on Jim Elliott, Philly hurler, netted the Reds a homer in the first inning. Then in the eighth, with two out, St. Johnson slammed a three-bagger to left field to score Jimmy Moore.

CARDS WIN.

MIAMI, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—The Cardinals defeated the New York Yankees, 2 to 1, today in their third straight victory of the "Grapefruit League" season over the world champions. The Giants got only five hits, two of the scratch variety.

Score: (A.).....000 000 000—2 1 1 Cardinals (N.).....000 000 000—1 1 1

A strike of more than 200 horsemen, which threatened to mar the final day at Hialeah and the opening of Tropical tomorrow, vanished into thin air today. Sufficient owners to insure well-filled fields at Tropical spent today moving their mounts from Hialeah to stables at Tropical.

The strike of the horsemen grew out of a refusal by the state racing commission of their request that it assume complete responsibility for the condition of horses before each race as a prevention against stimulation of the animals for which the commission has waged a relentless crusade.

FAMOUS GEORGIA ATHLETES TODAY and YESTERDAY

Vernon (Catfish) Smith.

Vernon (Catfish) Smith.

Football's man of destiny—that was Vernon Smith. We often thought of this when we saw his name mentioned across the sports sections of New York papers on the Sunday mornings. And the catfish and a catfish and a football commingled in the general artistic idea.

To a man who saw Vernon Smith play his first high school game as a substitute—all this was nothing less than phenomenal. How in three short years, the tall, lean youngster who won his position on the Lanier High school varsity because he could catch passes, should be smearing the best off-tackle plays of Yale and N. Y. U. and have his name bandied about as a possible All-American.

This all came about in 1929, when Vernon Smith was a sophomore at the University of Georgia. A great game against Yale at Athens, which Georgia won, 15-0. Another good game against N. Y. U. and he was made.

RISES TO HEIGHTS. He always had the happy faculty of rising to heights against Yale. And say what you will about crocheting, Vernon Smith, also hit for the circuit, driving one past Babe Ruth in the second inning with Pinky Whitney on base to give Boston a 2-0 lead.

He succeeded very well indeed at it, as well as causing the Violets of N. Y. U. to do some blushing of their own. Vernon Smith, the boy who overleapt three periods of a high school football game, became the University of Georgia's most colorful all-around athlete. A matchless competitor, he accomplished everything that an athlete could possibly accomplish on the football field, the basketball court and the baseball diamond. What he lacked in technique, he more than made up in performance.

And they have seen him as assistant football coach and the head basketball coach. They could not have picked a man more representative of the spirit of college athletics.

STATE LEAGUE REVIVAL DUE

AMERICAN, Ga., March 18.—(AP)—Fifteen baseball enthusiasts representing different cities of this section met here this afternoon and took first steps toward reorganization of the Georgia State Baseball league.

The assembly was addressed by several of the delegates and upon the motion of Joe Cornett, of Montezuma, it was agreed to complete the organization of the circuit through committees which will visit the cities in the proposed loop this week. Cities included in the tentative plans for the association are Americus, Albany, Columbus, Valdosta and Montezuma.

Jim Blair, president of the American Junior Chamber of Commerce, presided over the meeting. He was accurate and his playing in every department of the game far more consistent than that of Blair.

Winning Foursome Is Six Under Par

A foursome composed of T. L. Johnson, S. H. Jones, H. S. Roberts and George Gardner won the dog fight at East Lake Sunday afternoon with a low score of 136, 6 under par.

Fourteen foursomes participated in the contest. It was the largest East Lake has had in that event. There were 204 golfers out at the course yesterday afternoon.

A foursome made up of Scott Hudson Jr., C. V. Carver, S. H. Roberts and H. H. Rieseney came second in the dogfight with a score of 137. Tied for third place with 140 were two foursomes, that of Miss Margaret Maddox, Jackson, Robertson, Harold Sargent and A. D. Gilbert and the other of Travis Johnson, Dr. L. H. Kelly, C. E. Weaver and A. A. Harty.

Berrien Moore Jr., Bobby Dodd, J. S. Black and E. H. Price were next with 141. In fifth place, with 143, were Crawford and Weaver, Bill Carver, C. Crawford and R. S. Mather.

GANDHI URGES RELIEF FOR 'QUAKE VICTIMS'

PATNA, India, March 18.—(AP)—The Mahatma Gandhi appeared today in a new role, urging co-operation with the British government in efforts to relieve the distress among earth quake sufferers in the Bihar region.

Gandhi, speaking before the central relief committee, made an impassioned plea in favor of a resolution "tendering respectful co-operation with the government."

The nationalist section of the committee demurred over the resolution but the little Mahatma won his point.

Abbott Pleased With Schedule

MACON, Ga., March 18.—(AP)—Spencer Abbott, manager of the Crabs, today expressed his satisfaction as being very well pleased with the 1934 Southern league schedule as released in Sunday papers.

"I'm glad that we're opening with three straight games at home and then have only a short road trip to Nashville before we are back home again with Chattanooga. It will break the early hardships of traveling and I can keep a few young players in the league games, too."

And an added attraction will be the initial homecoming activities of J. P. Allen ladies' teams, in which 21 ladies will compete for two special awards, two pairs of hose, to be given to the two high bowlers in the league games, too.

Special arrangements are being worked out for round-robin play, with the bowlers having no averages. Entries will be accepted at the office of the bowling alley right up to game time Saturday, but it is advisable to get the entry in early so that an equitable handicap may be arrived at in each particular case.

Col. Sandy Beaver Is Host to Georgian, Two Other Governors.

MIAMI, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—While drums rolled, governors of three southern states today witnessed a review of more than 300 cadets at the Riverside Military Academy at Hollywood, near here.

As guests of Colonel Sandy Beaver, president of the CWA, the chief executives were Dave Sholtz of Florida, Eugene Talmaage of Georgia and C. B. Ehringhaus of North Carolina. The review was held at the Riverside Military Academy at Hollywood, near here.

Tomorrow the governors plan to attend the opening of a 12-day racing season at Tropical Park, and in the evening will be guests of the mayors of the three cities.

MAN IS BADLY INJURED IN COLLISION OF AUTOS

One Atlantan was admitted to Grady hospital in a serious condition Sunday as the result of an automobile accident and his son was treated for minor injuries, while application for a CWA traffic survey of Atlanta was being prepared with a view of obtaining information through the use of which this city's traffic conditions might be improved.

J. P. Thompson, 43, of 354 Holmwood street, was admitted to Grady with a crushed chest after being in a collision with a Buick sedan on the corner at Hightower road and Bankhead highway. His son, Billy Thompson, 10, was treated for cuts on the head and hand.

Jack Strous, secretary of the Atlanta Motor Club, and J. E. Stott, state safety director of the CWA, were preparing an application which will be forwarded to the city of Atlanta, asking for a traffic survey of the city under the supervision of an expert traffic engineer.

The survey has the approval of Mayor J. Lee and Governor Eugene Talmaage. A traffic engineer to oversee the survey, if the application is granted, will be provided by the CWA. The survey will be made in the next few days and would last 10 weeks and recommendations for improving traffic conditions in Atlanta would be made by the end of the survey.

The survey would be aimed at control of traffic at peak hours at peak points.

Singer Ordered Held In Sixsmith Slaying

George W. Singer Sunday was ordered held by a coroner's jury for the killing of his son-in-law, Albert Sixsmith, who was shot Friday night at his home, 1084 Sanders avenue, S. E., as the climax of a party which Singer, it was said, thought was getting too rowdy.

Singer admitted killing his son-in-law, but claimed that he shot in self-defense, it was said. The shooting was said to have occurred at 11:30 p. m. on Friday night at his home, 1084 Sanders avenue, S. E., as the climax of a party which Singer, it was said, thought was getting too rowdy.

Reviewing the Shows

By RALPH T. JONES.
The only inexplicable feature of "Jimmy the Gent," now playing at the Georgia, is that any girl, particularly one with the apparent intelligence of Bette Davis, could ever fall in love with James Cagney. Especially with the haircut he displays. And the bow tie.

Aside from this picture is good entertainment, dealing with certain unscrupulous persons whose business is to discover heirs for unclaimed estates, but hesitating to take an heir or two who it appears that a worthwhile fortune is going to be gained.

The story moves with snap and plenty of laughs and the plot is sufficiently involved to provide a mild mental exercise in following it. All of which is good for you. The picture will be at the Georgia through Tuesday.

A new picture, of course, made its bow Sunday at the Capitol. It is "You Can't Buy Everything," with May Robson. Didn't see it, but will remedy that oversight today. In advance, the title seems slightly bromidic, though May is always good. Will also report tomorrow on the new Capitol stage show, "Rhythm Aristocrats."

Notice that the Paramount is changing its picture today, having decided that Atlanta doesn't enjoy a picture such as "As the Earth Turns." This, a really artistic production worth seeing by anyone, drew practically nothing at the box office, which indicates that local picture addicts are not ready for realism and prefer to continue their addiction for the good old humors.

MISS. PWA LOAN ISSUE TO BE DECIDED TODAY

Legislative Deadlock on Road Fund Expected To Be Ended.

JACKSON, Miss., March 18.—(P)—The fight over Governor Sennett Connors' veto of the $10,000,000 PWA highway loan bill, which has held the lower house of the Mississippi legislature in a tight deadlock since Thursday, is slated for settlement tomorrow.

As leaders of both factions, those supporting the governor and those seeking to overthrow the veto, returned to the capital tonight, the belief prevailed that a vote will be reached shortly after the house convenes at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

The administration block, numbering less than a majority but thus far able to prevent their opponents from obtaining a two-thirds vote necessary to pass the bill over the veto, again will push for a final vote tomorrow.

Supporters of the bill also appeared more eager to dispose of the controversial issue. Their leaders tonight said if a full membership were present at tomorrow's session they would not seek further postponement of a vote.

They wanted the people back home to have an opportunity to express themselves over the week-end, and that is why we forced adjournment Friday and Saturday without taking a vote. We will be ready for a showdown tomorrow," said one leader.

Whether the week-end recess brought about any material shift in the opinion of the two groups is a matter of conjecture. Administrationists confidently predicted their ranks "have not budged," while proponents of the proposal to override the veto claimed they have picked up some votes.

If a full membership answers the roll call tomorrow, 94 votes will be necessary to overthrow the veto. On a half-dozen test votes Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the group sustaining the governor consistently polled around 90 votes, sufficient to block an override.

The bill, which passed both houses with a three-fifths majority, would authorize a special commission to sell to the public works administration $7,500,000 of state notes in return for a loan of that amount and a $2,500,000 grant, which would be used to finance a supplemental highway construction program.

The senate, which has followed the "veto battle" in the house with much interest, faces numerous important issues during the coming week, the twelfth of the current session, including the house-approved hard liquor bill and measure requiring certification of school teachers.

In the event the house disposes of the veto issue tomorrow, Chairman L. T. Kennedy, of the appropriations committee, announced he will resume consideration of expense bills. The lower chamber already has passed more than $12,000,000 worth of appropriation measures, with about $10,000,000 remaining to be considered, including the general appropriation bill, carrying approximately $9,000,000.

ORDERS GUESTS AWAY, KILLS WIFE AND SELF
BRADFORD, Pa., March 18.—(P)—A few minutes after guests, whom he had ordered to leave, were outside his home, Wilbert G. Eger, 46, killed himself and his wife early today with a rifle, in nearby Custer City.

An 11-year-old son said his father had become enraged because he believed Mrs. Eger was being too friendly with others at the party.

Opera Seat Sale To Open Today For Coming Season at Erlanger

Reservations for any of the 16 performances, to be given at the Erlanger theater by the New York Opera Association, may be made, beginning today, either at the box office of the theater or at the Cable Piano Company. The additional box office at the Cable place has been opened for the benefit of those who find it more convenient to make their reservations while uptown. There is no difference in so far as choice of seats is concerned at either office.

The two-week opera season, at prices lower than ever known before for grand opera, opens on Monday, April 23. A company containing many well-known stars of grand opera, headed by Carmela Ponselle and with Gabriele Simoni, the "young Toscanini," conducting, will present the finest opera of all time in thoroughly traditional manner, both as to scores, staging and cast. Splendid orchestra, ballet and chorus is carried by the company.

Owing to the immense popularity of opera in Atlanta, when properly presented, and the limited seating capacity at the Erlanger, it is advisable for all prospective patrons to make reservations for all performances they expect to attend as early as possible. Sell-out is expected to be the rule for a majority of the programs.

The schedule for the two-week season follows:
Week of April 23.

It Continues to Shine

We all know the expression, "Behind the clouds the sun is always shining." We have had many clouds in the last four years; but life insurance continues to shine day after day, month after month, year after year.

It continues to do its job as it has done it for over one hundred years, bringing benefits to the people—keeping homes together, giving schooling to children, and giving mothers an opportunity to rear their families; making happy and serene the future years for thousands of men and women.

Miss Fancher Feted By Writers' Club

Short story evening at the Atlanta Writers' Club, on Friday, featured the presentation of the manuscript of the subject of the prevailing forms and trends of this type of expression, as well as the reading of two original stories by members of the organization.

The dinner, which was held in the ballroom of the Atlanta Woman's Club, had a prevailing Irish motif, with placecards in the form of shamrocks, with centers made of tiny chips of rock from Ireland, suggestive of the Barney stone. The speakers' table had as a centerpiece a miniature tower, replica of that of Barney castle, where the famous stone is located. English lily trailed over the turret and clustered at the base. The meeting was opened with the Scotch blessing by the Honorable John M. Graham, veteran member of the club.

The honor guest was Lauretta Jean Fancher, widely known author, teacher and critic, who has served on the editorial staff of McClure's magazine and Plain Talk, and whose classes in short-story writing have been very successful. Miss Fancher has written a number of novels and short stories, and has been a frequent contributor to various magazines and newspapers. She was accompanied by her husband, Mr. Fancher, who is a well-known writer and editor.

INSTALLMENT IX.

"I know it's awful hard, ma," Jen said. "I wish you wouldn't take it so. I know it's awful hard!"

In the morning Mark Shaw drove up to George's place with the one-horned cow tied to the back of his wagon.

Toward the middle of May, Margaret spent a Saturday in the field with Ed. It was not usual in Shaw women to work out-of-doors, but Margaret had insisted and Ed indulged her. Down under the hill not even the chimney tops of their house were visible to them, nor the ridgepole of their barn. It was almost as if they had no buildings, but were a peasant couple traveled out to the solitude of their own plot of land. The lilac bushes by the fence were budding and the plum trees in full bloom. Strawberries had blossomed all along the edges of the plowed piece. A bobolink sang in the marsh. Margaret walked first, in short plaid gingham dress with no sleeves, dropping corn, and Ed followed, dropping beans. She could feel him tall and steady behind her. Sometimes he spoke. "There's goes a bluebird. See him? Over the hill now." After a few rows he set down his pail of beans and began covering what they had planted, with the crisp sound of metal moving the soil. "Tired, puss?" he asked her. She shook her head, but she put his arm around her while they stood for a minute resting, and she leaned against him. "No, Ed. Just happy." Ed grinned. This was life as he liked it, everything simple and in its place. They ate their lunch in the shade of a walnut tree on the side hill. Margaret had brought biscuit with home-made corn, and sweetened tea in glass bottles. When they had finished, Ed lay with his head on Margaret's lap and she fingered his thick damp hair, smoothing it back from his forehead where his hat had stuck it down. She felt at ease with him out here, more than before they had been married. She knew him now, and all his ways, and how to please him; it was not always easy to do, but she knew. Ed lay relaxed, his hand unthinking against her, his mind wandering over this which stretched out for acres on all sides of his body. He felt the softness of the grass, too, and knew that it would grow, that he would fill his barn with it by and by and the yellow sides of the Jersey cows would become sleek and rounded.

She sat looking down at him, feeling him heavy and hot beside her, and wondered how women told men when tion; she looked smaller than ever. "Lois May's got a job!" Jen put down her knife. "A job!"

"Yes, ma'am, she's got a job! Now ain't that a young one, I want to know? You can't keep that kind down so easy! She says here and Lize have been hunting ever since she heard I couldn't send the money, and Tuesday night she got a chance at a hotel switchboard. Fifteen dollars a week, and goes to work Monday morning. Now what do you think of that?"

"It's fine," Jen said. "My, that's fine."

"Ain't that some of it?" insisted Mrs. Shaw. "To get out and get herself a job where she wouldn't be dependent on anybody? She'll get somewhere in this world, and you needn't think she won't."

Bun came in out of breath, slopping water from her pail. "What'd you say, ma? Ma, 'd you say Lois May wasn't coming home?"

"No, she ain't coming home," Mrs. Shaw said. "Your sister ain't so easy beat. She's got herself a job without an education—"

But Bun was not listening. She turned tragic eyes on Jen. "Then won't we have the ice cream?" she asked mournfully. "Nor sponge cake?"

"Yes, we will," exclaimed Jen with sudden resolve. "We'll have a big supper just the same, and George and Ed will come, and their folks."

"I'm awful glad this turned out so," she thought. "For Mill's sake. It's always George gets them into trouble, and then she takes the brunt."

Her mother looked at her in surprise, her face softened. It seemed that Bun was growing older; she might in time have nice ways like Lois May's.

"Well, there," she agreed. "You can't don't know who's got a better right."

"Whoopee!" Bun said relaxing. "And Jen, will you make the fricassee, just the same?"

SUMMER.

Towards the last of June Oily came home. At one time Jen had expected him on the 10th, when his examinations were over, but at the last minute he was offered the chance to work about the grounds during commencement week, and afterward to help put the buildings in order for the summer session.

The night he came Jen was making biscuit for supper. As she straightened from sliding them into the oven, her glance passed the window and she saw him cutting across lots through the pasture, and stopped to watch him, smiling. That was Oily. He never walked with the firm, tranquil tread of his father and George and Ed, but moved jerkily, sometimes stumbled over rough places, for his mind was preoccupied and he did not look down at his feet. He had followed the cows up the lane in the days when what were now becoming John's "chores" had been his; how the young heifers would get away from him because he forgot to watch them close; how he had stubbed his bare toes until they bled. Now here he was, a grown man, dressed in a suit and a stiff straw hat, coming home from college. It was a wonder what a few years would do; and yet they had not really changed him, only put him in a place where he fitted.

The next day he worked for 12 hours with his father in the field. He did not hold his hoe quite right, nor use it easily, but none ever set a pace that left him behind. At night he was exhausted, and could not eat much supper. Jen noticed but did not speak of it, and when she had finished the dishes she went out and sat beside him on the steps. He had a lonesome look, she thought, sitting there in a striped overall and a blue shirt opened down his lean, white chest; he always did at home, for the children never followed him about as they did Ed, and Mark Shaw avoided the silences that fell between them when they were idle, though he liked to speak to him in passing and watch him from a distance.

New York Stock House Offering Huge Array of Latest Styles

10,000 GARMENTS ARE NOW ON HAND FOR RETAIL TRADE

Selections Include Ladies' Dresses, Swagger Suits, Skirts, Blouses, Sport and Evening Wear.

A stock of approximately 10,000 ladies' garments—dresses, swagger suits, skirts and blouses—in the latest modes and patterns is on hand for retailers' inspection at the New York Stock House, Inc., 176 Pryor street, according to I. D. Weitz, president, who has just returned from the eastern markets.

While in New York, Mr. Weitz spent two weeks selecting the newest and smartest in ready-made garments for the Easter and early summer trade, as well as the most up-to-the-minute novelty materials for the manufacturing department of the New York Stock House here.

"The year's styles and designs," says Mr. Weitz, "are unusually smart and attractive."

In connection with his announcement that a stock of 10,000 garments will be carried locally, he states additional stock will be arriving almost daily throughout the spring, which will enable the New York Stock House to insure its customers immediate delivery and its usual high standard of service on all orders.

Not only will the company's stock include dresses, swagger suits, skirts and blouses, but the very latest in sport and party wear and evening gowns, all at popular prices to fit the customer's retail selling price range.

The company, Mr. Weitz asserts, is prepared to give Atlanta delivery at New York prices.

Mr. Weitz calls special attention not only to his old customers but to prospective clientele to the fact he has established an additional department which will carry a full line of children's Easter dresses.

He extends a cordial invitation to the New York Stock House's innumerable friends and customers to visit the Pryor street headquarters and to see for themselves the really beautiful selection of garments on hand. Arrangements have been made for additional help, he states, in order that special and personal attention may be given to all inquiries.

West Lumber Co. Supplies Best in Needs of Builder

Only Materials of Proven Excellence Sold by Local Concern—One-Purchase Service Proves Popular With Atlantans.

Carrying a diversified line of building materials is nothing new for the West Lumber Company, which is a pioneer in Atlanta in this respect. J. J. West, founder of the West Lumber Company, realizing the vast amount of time lost by the property owner or contractor having to go to so many places to make his purchases, and then the additional time lost in waiting for the different concerns to make deliveries, conceived the idea of making it possible for purchasers of lumber, building supplies and paint to do this at one time and place. The delivery could then be made at one time and there was no delay for the workmen. One can readily see how this saved money for all concerned.

The public soon saw the advantage of this kind of service; so did the West Lumber Company's competitors. Consequently, today the West Lumber Company has many imitators. Having made a study of the various lines used in the construction and repair industry over a period of 38 years, the West Lumber Company has eliminated the unsatisfactory lines and can recommend to customers lines that have proven to be the best after years of service.

In its paint department, one will find Carter white lead, made by the National Lead Company, a concern of national reputation. The West Lumber Company has been distributing for Carter white lead in this territory for years. Many people insist on what is known as a strictly pure lead and oil job. Carter lead, when mixed with any of the standard brands of pure linseed oil, also sold by the West Lumber Company, will give a lead and oil paint job that cannot be beaten for wear or looks.

When it comes to ready-mixed paints, the West Lumber Company distributes the well known line of paint made by the R. F. Johnston Paint Company, of Cincinnati. The

MANY BONDS HIT NEW HIGH LEVELS

By VICTOR EURANK.
NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP)—Bonds during the past week paid little attention to stocks and staples, and many issues succeeded in establishing new high levels for the past two years or more.

While at times there was some nervousness displayed over the labor market, and occasional profit-taking flurries on the theory that prices may have advanced too rapidly, little liquidating pressure was apparent.

Compensatory factors included the revival of "sound money" psychology. In line with this thought, Secretary Morgan had thrown some cold water on the inflationists by announcing that the administration was not disposed to do anything more for silver at this time because the recovery program appeared to be getting along very well without any new monetary experimentation.

At the same time the country's idle capital, estimated at a huge amount, continued to hunt for work and United States Governments and prime corporate issues were in demand throughout. The excess reserves of the federal reserve system reached another new high at around $1,400,000,000. The relative steadiness of the American dollar in foreign exchange markets was also seen as an investment influence.

The growing interest in listed loans is shown by the volume of trading on the New York Stock Exchange, which, thus far this year, has passed $1,000,000,000 par value. In the same period last year the aggregate was only around $600,000,000.

The customary feverish activity in the money market on March 15 was missing because the treasury financing included only an exchange of new 3 per cent four-year notes for certificates maturing on that date. Notwithstanding, the premium on the new obligations, holders of about $5,000,000 of the maturing $400,000,000 loan did not make the exchange. These, of course, were paid in cash.

Failure of the treasury to call the

PRE-EASTER SALES SPUR U. S. TRADE TO RECORD LEVELS

Reports From Retail and Wholesale Channels Overshadow Slight Recessions in Other Lines.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—With the pre-Easter shopping season, spurred by favorable weather, getting into full swing during the past week, the movement of merchandise reached new high levels for this phase of the recovery.

Paint signs of faltering appeared in industrial statistics, after the steady gains of several weeks, but such recessions as occurred were slight, and were largely obscured by the cheerful reports from retail and wholesale channels.

For the first time since January, steel production slackened a trifle. The weekly survey by Steel placed it currently at 50 per cent of capacity, against 51 per cent a week previously, and mentioned labor uncertainties as causing a slackening.

Nevertheless, production in the automobile industry, chiefly concerned by the labor developments, advanced rather sharply. Cream rail production for the week ended yesterday was estimated at 70,673 units, an increase of 6,028 units over the previous week, nearly four times the extremely low level of the like week of last year, and the best total for any week since May of 1931.

The weekly statistics of electric power production showed a slight contraction, seasonal sales, which together with the steel figures, brought a slight recession in most of the seasonally adjusted weekly index figures for business activity.

For the week ended March 10, power production was placed at 1,647,024,000 kilowatt hours, off 11,016,000 from the previous week. However, it was 18.4 per cent above the like week of last year, which fell in the banking holiday.

The weekly report of freight car loadings, on the other hand, showing a total of 612,402 cars for the week ended March 10, which was 1.4 per cent over the previous week, made a better than seasonal showing. Compared with the like week of 1933, the figure was 38.8 per cent, reflecting the stagnation of trade during the banking holiday. But the total was 6.8 per cent over the same period of 1932.

A spring peak in normal times has commonly been recorded in late March loadings, on the other hand, showing a total of 612,402 cars for the week ended March 10, which was 1.4 per cent over the previous week, made a better than seasonal showing.

With the automobile industry balking so large in the current upswing, the controversy in Detroit over recognition of unions held the attention of business observers. Steel said in its weekly survey, "whether the steel industry has passed the peak in the spring bulge of production, or merely is in a shallow valley, depends on adjustments in the labor situation."

Discussing retail trade, Dun & Bradstreet's weekly survey said the better weather had boosted totals to the best levels for 1934, and volume for the first half of the current month was estimated at 10 to 15 per cent over last year, reflecting in part the early March banking tieup of 1933.

This agency reported even sharper gains in volume in placing new orders swamped by postponed orders now pouring in, making deliveries difficult in some cases. Compared with the abnormal levels of this period last year, gains of 60 to 80 per cent were indicated.

Dun & Bradstreet said some increase in unemployment was a favorable comparison with the preceding week, especially at Atlanta and Dallas, where there was an increase. Average daily bank clearings for the first half of March exceeded those for any preceding month.

Boulder Crest Nurseries Offer Solution Of Problem of Home Grounds Beautification

Here is shown a delightfully attractive spot on the grounds of the Boulder Crest Nurseries, which has been expertly beautified by the use of ornamental trees and shrubbery. The Boulder Crest Nurseries, long experienced in landscape gardening as well as the development and production of trees, shrubbery, vines and roses, urges planting now not only to enhance the value of residential property but to increase its beauty during the months and years to come.

With the return of spring imminent, says Jesse E. Brannen, proprietor of the Boulder Crest Nurseries, the thoughts of the home owner are turning into its surroundings by a background of stately trees and a setting of green shrubbery to soften the hard architectural lines of masonry or frame.

"A tastefully decorated interior is a source of pride, but multiply by hundreds the number of guests who enjoy the indoor charm of your house, and you will approximate the number of people who share the beauty of your grounds. Whether it be a snug little cottage with a garden like a lady's handkerchief or an impressive suburban estate, either may be decorated with bare or set among graceful trees and shrubs."

Ornamental shrubs, says Mr. Brannen, are used extensively in beautifying all homes. Large or small, he asserts, the home needs the finishing touch given by planting to make it attractive, since it may be used in softening the lines of a foundation or of borders, edges of walls and boundaries, in filling depressions, back to July, last, excepting only February this year.

PROVIDING PROTECTION FOR THE YOUNG AND OLD
WE sometimes forget that the plight of the widow with the family of small children is no more sad, no more unfortunate than is the plight of the old man and the old woman whose last steps must lead over the hill to the poorhouse, or to some less cruel form of charity. Financial suffering is equally painful whether the burden fall upon young or upon old.

COTTON BILL DELAY CAUSES RECESSION IN COTTON TRADING

Prices Ease Off When Progress of Bankhead Measure in House Appears Unsatisfactory.

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—(AP)—The cotton market during the past week continued its waiting attitude owing to the delay in the disposal of the Bankhead cotton control bill.

There was more or less liquidation by tired longs, particularly in the early part of the week, but the effect of this selling was offset by price fixing and covering by short sellers.

The extreme spread of fluctuations did not exceed 24 points. Prices advanced when the Washington news proved favorable and eased off when the progress of the Bankhead measure appeared to be unsatisfactory. The week finally closed with prices showing a small net decline compared with the preceding Saturday of 3 to 7 points for short turns.

The demand for spots continued rather slack with buyers and sellers apart. The demand was checked by the heavy basis demanded and by the firmness of spot holders who evidently hoped for higher prices later on. At the same time the actual exports from domestic ports were rather liberal and well in excess of the corresponding week last year with the result that the decrease in total shipments for the season dropped to about 60,000 bales.

The following shows the high, low and closing sales at the New Orleans futures market during the past week compared with a year ago:

	High	Low	Close
March	12.20	12.04	12.04 6.37
May	12.24	12.12	12.14 6.43
July	12.44	12.20	12.23 6.60
October	12.58	12.35	12.35 6.81
December	12.67	12.45	12.40 6.30

Electric, rail and bus companies throughout the country showed an increase of 3.35 per cent in net operating revenues in 1933, the American Transit Association announced. Total net revenue was $115,094,174, the report said, compared with $111,363,502 in 1932. The increase occurred although traffic for the year was off more than 6 per cent.

Dun & Bradstreet reports that "at no time in the past decade have conditions in the dry goods trade elicited high expectations for a year of profitable operations."

PROVIDING PROTECTION FOR THE YOUNG AND OLD
WE sometimes forget that the plight of the widow with the family of small children is no more sad, no more unfortunate than is the plight of the old man and the old woman whose last steps must lead over the hill to the poorhouse, or to some less cruel form of charity. Financial suffering is equally painful whether the burden fall upon young or upon old.

The unseen eyes of Opar watched the advancing column. They recognized La and Tarzan, and the Waziri and Jada-ba-j. Oah was frightened. Dooth trembled, and little Nao, who hated Oah, was as happy as one may be who carries a broken heart in one's bosom.

As Tarzan and his party entered the city, they heard from the interior of the temple a sudden burst of screams. When they entered the throne room, Oah and Dooth were lying dead, together with a half dozen priests and priestesses. Except for these the room was empty.

Once again, by the power of her loyal followers, did La resume her throne as queen. That night Tarzan, Lord of the Jungle, ate again from the golden platters of Opar while young girls served him. Her people, who hated Oah and had killed her, promised loyalty to La.

Tarzan, knowing La was safe, was glad when the new day found him at the head of his Waziri crossing the plain of Opar. Upon his bronzed shoulder sat Nikma; and at the apeman's side paced the golden lion, while behind him marched his hundred Waziri warriors.

NANCY PAGE

Most of Us Wear Easter Clothes for an Entire Spring

By FLORENCE La GANKE.

Mrs. Lacey had told the girls that there would be few new clothes this spring.

"Your fall outfits are all in good condition and this past winter you have grown less than for some time past. We shall see whether we can't make your coats and dresses do. Of course you shall have new hats, gloves, shoes, stockings, bags and so on." Poor Mrs. Lacey felt that most of her life was spent in outfitting her girls even down to all the so on's. Claire went with a school friend when she selected a new hat. The girls had quite a heated argument before they went into the shop.

Claire realized that new outfits for Easter did not grow on trees and that clothes had to be bought for more wear than that one day.

"It's all right, Marge, to select a light tan felt hat and a pale blue dress and a pair of deeper blue trimmed with summer ermine. But while those clothes may look spring-like and festive on Easter day how will they look five weeks or two months from then? Can you wear such an outfit to school, day after day, in spring rains and spring sunshine?"

Marge had to admit that Claire was right. In selecting a hat she finally took a dark blue with a jaunty, gay feather.

Her coat was of tweed. It had the drop shoulder, pique collar, double breasted buttoned effect and smart leather belt. It looked serviceable, trim and smart. Marge felt sure she could wear it just as suitably on a Monday morning as on a Sunday morning. Claire agreed with her.

Nancy's leaflet on "Budgets" may give you an idea as to the percentage that should be spent for clothes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for a copy to Nancy Page care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Mr. Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: What would you do if life had been one misfortune after another for you? I know all of us have our troubles and trials in this world, but it seems that everything I do is a mistake, everything I say is wrong and everywhere I go misfortune follows me. I have said a thousand times that I would give up, end it all, and why I haven't I don't know. I wonder over the past from day to day, and dread the future, suspecting that something worse is coming to me. I live in fear of spending a lonely, miserable old age, yet I

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

Crisp shoulders done in new way.

CRISP SHOULDERS DONE IN NEW WAY.

Springtime and a gay printed crepe silk frock to add to your joys. And easy as falling off a log to make it.

Note how cleverly it hugs the waistline. This shaped inset section extends in points at the sides. It has a very slimming effect to the bodice and to the hip section. The pattern provides for long and short set-in sleeves.

Plain crepe silk and rayon novelties are other smart suggestions.

Pastel silks, linen and cotton prints will prove charming mediums for your summer wardrobe.

Style No. 574 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust.

Material requires 3 yards of 39-inch material with 1 yard of 39-inch contrasting.

The Essence of Fashion!

Inspired Effort

"Products of honest quality are the result of Inspired Effort."

(From the book "Standards of Business" by Elwood E. Rice, LL.D.)

THE soul-stirring symphonies of Ludwig van Beethoven are among the most expressive melodies ever penned. His compositions were the outcome of Inspired Effort—the result of creative genius. And genius, as Carlyle said, is "an infinite capacity for taking pains."

Before sunrise and even after sunset Beethoven worked, with earnest and lofty enthusiasm, constantly elaborating the themes he had sketched, ceaselessly correcting, polishing and improving—never content until he attained perfection. In a word, his heart and mind were in each note.

It is not given to all men to become so great, but the path by which Beethoven walked is still the path which leads to success: Painstaking care, pride in workmanship and devotion to an ideal bring their reward as ever. These qualities inspire the efforts of members of the Rice Leaders of the World Association—reputable manufacturers whose every act is in complete accord with the following

- HONOR: A recognized reputation for fair and honorable business dealings.
- QUALITY: An honest product, of quality truthfully represented.
- STRENGTH: A responsible and substantial financial standing.
- SERVICE: A recognized reputation for conducting business in prompt and efficient manner.

These manufacturers, in their earnest desire to attain perfection, spare neither time, thought nor expense. The many intricate details of their business are mastered with technical knowledge and creative skill, and with "an infinite capacity for taking pains," wherein Honest Quality is truly expressed in their finished products and service.

The Rice Leaders of the World Association has worked wholeheartedly, and in concert with its members, for twenty-two years, imbued with a determination to raise American business to a higher plane.

It does not claim any monopoly of merit for the concerns which compose its membership. But you will find deep satisfaction in dealing with these master-manufacturers. Their every effort is in harmony with the inspiring standards which the Association's Character Emblem sets forth.
